

Colthurst, M. P. has arrived in Cork, remainder of the City Grand Jury. Both are not to go to America. The Earl of Essex intends contesting the seat at the next General Election. Mr. Swayne has arrived in Cork. The day is at Mr. Hyde's, Castle-Hyde.

Adam Averill, at present on a tour Wesleyan Methodist Societies in Ireland, is to-morrow, and preach in the Meeting-house, at seven o'clock on Thursday.

The bodies of John Dillane, his sister the late Mrs. Dillane, and her daughter, were found dead at Knockdrumroon, in this County. Reports are in circulation, as to the manner of their deaths, we abstain from giving detail, until a report of the Coroner's inquest is received.

Provision is made by the Government, by the Co. Registrars, to order the third part of the cost of the Police Preservation Act, to be paid out of a consolidated Fund.

A letter received in this city, from a military authority, at Gibraltar, dated the 7th inst.

is going to the westward of Algiers, in consequence of the daily deaths are reduced to fifteen, and the number of victims in that city to 10,000. Mr. Mac-Donald, the British Consul, and family, have been quite well—Mr. Mac-Donald is shut up in their house, and have had no communication with the Algerines."

In consequence of several outrages in different parts of the County, we understand that the Police Preservation Act in force—this Act has been introduced, has been found to be of great use to resist, and finally put down disturbances. It has the power of correcting the law, and insures protection to the honest and industrious.

On Monday, an Inquest was held by John Levers, Coroner, on view of the body of Peggy O'Brien, as found dead on a part of the Demesne of the late Mr. O'Brien. It appeared to the Jury, from evidence before them, that she was thrown over the wall by some person unknown, which caused her death.

In consequence of a press of Advertisements, we have this day published a SUPPLEMENT of EIGHT COLUMNS with a list of the Army Estimates, and other Parliamentary business, with several interesting articles.

We shall be glad to inform the public on the interest which the young Ladies take in their endeavours to improve the condition of the poor female children of the County. An establishment has been formed for the manufacture of straw hats and bonnets, under the direction of the texture and finish of which, far exceeds any of the kind before introduced into this County. It is disposed of at a moderate rate, and deserves the support of the public.

At the Anniversary of the Society.—We are extremely happy to inform the public that the sermon preached by the Rev. Richard Watson, last, in St. Michael's Chapel, in the Female Poor School, under the direction of the Convent of St. Clare, proved most productive. Indeed, from the paramount utility of the institution, and the proverbial generosity of our citizens, in the cause of humanity, and most liberal contributions; but when we consider the distressed state of society, at the present time, and the many appeals that have already been made on the purse of a beneficent public; we are not surprised with more than ordinary pleasure we have seen the amount of the collection on the present Anniversary have run nearly so high as £150. To the benevolence and liberality of the Rev. Preacher.
