MENT TO GROW FLAX.—In our Paper of the st year, we ventured to advise the farmers of Limerick and Clare, to profit by the misorth Country farmers, who neglected to sow ity of flaxseed that season; and we are happy se who followed our advice, were well eir exertions, by having good crops of flax, ood prices for it. We can now hold out even ngement to our farmers to increase their usual seed this season, because flax, yarn, and linen a great demand; because, through the exermber of Commerce, a regular Linen Mar-his City once a week, and two Flax and Yarn week; and, because the Chamber of Com-out to erect a Water-mill for scutching flax plan, which will bring it to market more tter prepared than by the common mode.

we conceive that the farmers of Limerick and possibly grow too much flax; for if the Linen neighbourhood should not, at present, be able ir entire crops, there is a sufficient vent in the otch markets, to take off the surplus, when ality, as it will be by the joint exertions of General of the Linen Board, and the Chamber
