The Treasurer of the Fever Hospital has received for that charity three Guineas from D. F. G. Mahony and Richard Wilson, Esqrs. which they had received from two Gentlemen who had submitted certain matters to them for their arbitration. The annexed statement which has this day been forwarded to Sir John Newport by the Committee of the Fever Hospital, must impress the public (if indeed this was necessary,) with the great importance of the benefits conferred on this city by this very valuable institution—if the extraordinary number of 1070 patients treated in the Hospitals since the 6th January last had remained in their habitations, spreading contagion and death on every side, what would have been the consequence?—it is utterly impossible to calculate the fearful extent to which disease and misery might have reached, and many in every rank of life, who now enjoy health, and are a blessing to their friends and to society, might have fallen before this terrible malady.—Great have been the exertions of the benevolent in this city and county in the last year in behalf of this charity, as may be seen by the printed statement of the hospital account just
