DIED—It is with feelings of deep regret we announce to his numerous friends and the public in general, the death of our esteemed and valued fellow-citizen, Hugh Brady, Esq. who died this morning, at his house in George's-street, in the forty-third year of his age, leaving a disconsolate widow and three young orphans to mourn the loss of a fond husband, and a most indulgent parent—a loss duly to be appreciated only by those who lived within the circle of his domestic acquaintance. In his friendship he was sincere and disinterested—his charity was without ostentation—he was a kind landlord, and his dealings were marked with punctuality and precision.—Long will it be ere the tear of sympathy shall cease to flow—long will the virtues which adorned this good man live in the grateful recollection of his afflicted family and friends.
The calm and pious resignation with which the approaching symptoms of dissolution were viewed, and the pious ejacula-tions flowing from the lips of the dying christian, evince the blessings to be derived from a firm hope and confidence in the merits of a Crucified Saviour—

"O Death, where is thy sting.
"O Grave, where is thy victory."

of this Lady presented a rare combination of those graces comprized under the heads of christian charity, as so beautifully described by St. Paul, in the 13th chap. of his Epistle to the Corinthian Church. This remark will be fully appreciated by those who had the happiness of witnessing in what a peculiar degree her conduct united the most persevering activity and zeal, with that meek and quiet spirit, which is the chiefest ornament of the female character, and the same grace which enabled her thus to walk, led her to ascribe all the Glory to God, "and to acknowledge, that having done all, she was an unprofitable servant." After a course of patient suffering under a protracted illness, she died, confi-
