is essential to the comfort of the City, if the Citizens can now with cold apathy let fall what they must be constrained to acknowledge afforded them not only the most solid comfort, but real advantage, as under the blessing of God, disease seemed to lessen from the moment this asylum was opened. One hundred pounds per month would amply uphold the Institution—the monthly subscriptions have not once amounted to sixty pounds—it is then, most certain the doors must be thrown open on Saturday next, unless obviated by the meeting on Friday.

The Proprietors of the Chronicle have received £1 10s. from V——, for the Fever Hospital.
