 determination to enjoin each other to ey, during the progress of their inter-of Messrs. Maunsell's and Co.—It consistent and wise in them to have any incorrect, or unexplained state-before the public. I trust, however, general interest of the Creditors, duties having come to a close, their report, they are released from the ons they then imposed on themselves, and ready to answer any questions sed to them, the tendency of which rable object of throwing additional interesting question, and may also putting that gloom which clouds and mind, at this eventful and most awful elusion of these observations a cry of air," resounded from different parts of to be in consultation, when at length, of their body, rose and said,—“If the commit his questions to writing and committee, they would take them into
