DEATHS.

On the 23th instant at Mill-Mount, in the County Galway, in the prime of life, to the inexpressible grief of his parents and friends, John Curran, jun. Esq. a young Gentleman possessing all the amiable and virtuous qualities necessary to ensure esteem. Intended for a Military life, he was educated at Marlow College; with a mind and disposition naturally noble, generous and kind, the system of education taught in that seminary still expanded those perfections in a very peculiar degree, which, while living, made him an object of esteem, and now of general regret—naturally lively, innocent and gay, his company was much sought after, and partaking in the amusements of his youthful companions, he caught cold, which brought on premature dissolution.

At Castle-Townsend, County Cork, the Lady of P. P. Fitzpatrick, Esq. Surveyor General, and only daughter of John Colthurst, of Carrigrohane, Esq.

At Traamore, Patrick Duckett, Esq.
At Castle-townsend, aged 78 years, Mrs. Carey, relict of the late William Carey, of Ballymackay, Co. Cork, Esq.
At the Chapel House, the Rev. M. Kirwan, Curate of St. Michan's Chapel, Dublin, aged 33.

In Waterford, Captain Stephen Newport.
In Dublin, Charles Dean, Esq. agent to Earl Fitzwilliam.

In Tralee, suddenly, Mr. Denis Lawlor.

In Carlow, the Rev. John Falkiner, L. L. D. He was Rector of the Union of Carlow and Killeslin for upwards of forty years, the duties of which he performed nearly twenty-five years, and preached occasionally, until within a few months of his death. Doctor Falkiner was Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Leinster, and cousin-german to the late Duchess. It is supposed that the Parishes of Carlow and Killeslin will be divided, and that the Rev. Mr. Jameson, who has for many years done the duty of both parishes, as Curate to Doctor Falkiner, may be appointed to one of them. It is somewhat remarkable, that for 65 years Carlow has had but two Rectors.
