DEATHS.

Seizure has a more painful task fallen to our lot, than that which this day devolves upon us, in announcing to her numerous and highly respectable family and connexions, the decease of Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon, wife of Thomas Fitz-Gibbon, Esq. and daughter of the late Gibson Fitz-Gibbon, Esq. of Ballynedeer, near this City. Ten days since, this amiable and benevolent Lady, now no more, enjoyed in the bosom of her afflicted family, that health, which to mortal foresight, seemed to promise a long continuance, but which, within this short period, has been blasted and withered in the paleons of death. To those labouring under any privation, the dictates of her head and heart were ever ready, as was her hand, to relieve the necessities of her distressed and needy fellow-creatures, ever mindful of their being redeemed by the same precious blood, and who will now have to lament a constant and kind benefactress. Scarcely was the fatal dart aimed, than struck the deadly blow. Languishing beneath the successive shocks of her disease, no expressions of impatience or distrust fell from her expiring lips, but calm and resigned, she returned her spirit back to the God who gave it; and on her dying bed, surrounded with her weeping friends, she breathed her last, trusting to the merits of Jesus Christ, with the sweet and comfortable energy of these words impressed upon her soul: “Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of thy Lord!”
