No accurate account his yet been received of the sufferers in the Moira Packet. It is earnestly looked for.

No entry is made of the persons who take their pissere in these Pickets, which accounts for the want of information as to the names of Thousander of lives lost upon that melancholy occasion is supposed to amount to between eighty and ninety. Captain Monro, Mr. W. McLoish, of Port Glasgow, and Mrs. Margaret Doran, of Dublin, are among the sufferers. The number of bodies found amount to fourteen. A considerable quantity of property was washed ushore, which was all secured, and is in the hands of the Rector of the Parish. On Mr MeLeish's body was found a watch worth forty guineas, and £22 in Bank Notes. The charge of plundering the bodies was without foundation.

A Mr. Kean Smith, one of the passengers, exerted himself considerably, and was the means of rescuing several of them that have been saved.

Some of the survivors say, that the Captain of the Packet was not so much to blame, though he was intoxicated, and was never known to be in that state before, but unfortunately his wife had been delivered of a son that day, which caused his inebriation.

Mr. Raymond, who was alinded to in the Dublin Papers, as having been a sufferer in the Moira Packet, is in perfect safety at Liverpool. He was on board the Packet a few hours before the sailed, but returned on shore from some circumstance.

LIMERICK, SATURDAY, AUGUST 18.

Engagement between the County Limerick Pater, and a party of nightly Marauders.

On Wednesday night, upwards of two bundred misguided wretches, mostly armed, many of them mounted on horsebook, and the entire dressed in white shirts, surrounded the horse of Mr. John Ises, a Tythe-Proctor, at Inchironthe, to it Askeston. After dragging him out of the hone on the high-way, they proceeded to administer oaths, prohibiting him from ever interfering in tothe business; and while thus employed, a party of Mr. Going's Police, consisting of seventeen Sub-Constables, under the Command of Thomas Doolan, Esq. Chief Peace Otheer, approached the house, having received private information in Rathkeale that such proceedings would take place during the night. On being challenged by Mr. Doolan, and comsounded to surrender, they drew up in regular line for battle, and immediately commenced firing on the Police, by an order from their leader. In that discharge, one of the Police. named Thomas Manning, was shot dead. Mr. Doolen instantly ordered his party to fire in return, which was quickly obeyed, and a regular volley obliged the assailants to break line, and disperse in all directions. A charge was then made by the Police, who succeeded in taking three prisoners, in full costume : two were also found dead, similarly attired. A pursuit after the fugitives took place, and many skirmishes occurred, in which upwards of sixty shots were fired by the l'olice.

From every information that can be collected, great numbers have been wounded, and, we are told, several dead bodies are concealed in the neighbourhood. Those found by the Police, in the first instance, were taken to Rathkeale, where they were interred on Thur-day, without coffins, in a large hole dag up by their companions, in a place of waste ground, near the Guard-house two prisoners were commelled by Mr. Going to perform all the offices he burial - after digging the hole, they were aged to bear the bodies and place them Seperall, and afterwards to shake quick-lime plentifully over them.

Another of the gang died last night in a hat on the mountain, where he had been removed from the scene of action; his name is Moran, and was brother to one of the prisoners in custody - he was shot through the abdomen.

Many more would have been slot by the Police, but after the first volley, the fellows all dismounted and took shelter behind their horses.

The roads in the neighbourhood of Askeston present a most horrid appearance---- treams of blood in various parts, and the different gaps, across which the wounded were borne away, are all begineared with blood.

There were fifteen horses brought into Rathkeale by the Police, upon which those wretches were mounted, but had deserted --many of them were dreadfully wounded. A considerable number of spits, old scythes and some fire arms, were brought into Rathkeale by the Police.

On the severe of Mr. Doolan's party to Rathkeale, on Thursday, there was a meeting of Magistrates sitting in the Sessions-House, and who had been called a few days previous, to take into consideration the state of that puri of the County. A Resolution of Thanks was immediately voted to Mr. Doolan, and the Police under his command, for the very spirited and determined conduct which they evinced on this occasion, the result of which, it is hoped, will have a happy and listing effect on the peace of the County.

Mr. Dool in missed are twice at the leader of the gang, his pistol having got wet. Hawas very close to him at the time, and would containly have shot him dead, had the pistol game of

Before the Police came near Ives's house, there were regular sentinels placed at different points, to give the main body notice of any alarm When they were challenged, the answer was, " We are Christians."

After the roller fired by the Police, the Captain, or Leader of the gang, who was attired in a most conspicuous manner, with a white dress, a cocked-hat and feathers, endeavoured to rally his troops, but without effect.

It is supposed, from the numbers, that the Police would have suffered severely, were it not for the extreme wetness of the night, which must have had its effect upon the fire-arms, with which they seemed to be well stocked.

Yesterday, a strong cavalry detachment of the Police, well e-nipped, conveyed three of this notable gang to the County Jail -they were brought in on horseback, and exactly in the dress as when taken. Their names are, Michael Moran, Michael Halloran, and Michael Fitz-Gerald. One of them, we are told, is willing to give full information against the entire party.

The Sub-Sheriff, in remonstrating with the prisoners while in the yard of the County Jail, asked them whether they had not been at prayers last Sunday, and whether they had not heard a very strong and impressive exhortation from the Clergyman, to desist from illegal proceedings, which were freely answered in the affirmative.

The committal of those persons, by Richard Going, Esq. Chief Magistrate of Police, runs thus :- " For being three of a Body of armed Rebels, (consisting of about 200), apprehended on the night of the 15th instant, at Inchiroucke, near Askeston, in un engagement between said Rebels and the County of Limerick Police, in which Thomas Manning, Sub-Constable was shot dead."

Yesterday, a strong party of the Police went to Askeaton and Newbridge, in search of some of the wounded persons; we have not yet heard whether they discovered any.

Inquests were held on the bodies by Mr. Cox, Corener.

impossible to convey, in language, an ofen of the feelings of seneration, of love, of enthabiasto, with which this Patriot Mountch was and wore crope on his arm. A large shamook was discovered in his hat. He sat with the Marquises of Winchester and Hendford in un open carriage, and was mostly uncovered.

He was dressed in Field Marshal's uniform,
