In India, Captain William Elliott Fitz-Gerald, 19th Native Infantry, Madras: son to the late Captain Fitz-Gerald, of Penfield, near this City. The climate of India has been fatal to the happiness of his afflicted mother, who has now to lament the untimely fate of her family—her eldest son, Captain James Fitz-Gerald, of his Majesty's 19th Foot, at the age of 28 years; her brother, Captain William Elliott, of the Hon. East India Company's service, at the age of 26 years; and her nephew, Major Charles H. Elliott, of the Nizam's service, at the age of 29 years; all these manly protectors torn from her in a distant climate, leaves her no joy but grief—no balm but heaven.
