tionary Course open to the public.

October 30, 1822.

Do you recollect any others who were present?
Mr. Gabbett was also present.

Alderman Westropp, is he a friend of Lord Gort's
the brother-in-law of Lord Gort.

Mr. Wilkinson, was he a friend of Lord Gort's? He was.

Mr. Jackson, the sheriff. He went away ill.

Mr. Morony? I cannot say which side he was; I think he was for the admission.

Mr. Daniel Gabbett? He certainly was for delay.
They had had the opinion of counsel, as to the proofs
and given in; it all hung upon the proofs offered in support of the petitions, some of them thought they were not sufficient.

So, that Mr. O'Grady, Alderman Watson, and Mr. D.
Gabbett, were for delay? Sheriff Watson was one of those who was against the admission; he had been appointed
just half an hour before; there were many more
I cannot recollect.

Cannot you recollect any more; If I saw the list of those who were present, perhaps I might; I was not we re there.

When did it take place? On the 1st of July.

You have no recollection of any one else. There were many more there, I am satisfied, but I cannot recollect their names. I may perhaps be able in
