

will you hesitate for a moment to assist in a Country the man who thus artfully attempts of virtue, religion, and all that is held sacred in. Now that the wolf has thrown off the mask, the People of this Country will spurn him from them, and the Nobility and Gentry, whom visit, will tell him, they are Christians and reward or punishment of an Almighty Power. To Mr. Owen's plan for ameliorating the condition of the Edinburgh Review speak thus: "Justice and charity, when not under the guidance of science, frequently degenerate into ministers aggravating the misery they endeavour to relieve, in their effects, those splendid but specious which throw a deceitful lustre over the scene. Our sincere esteem for the benevolent and disinterested conduct of Mr. Owen, withholds us from any opinion respecting the intellect of the plan, which he proposes to accomplish such ends by his reasonings, as well as in his plans, Mr. Owen is profoundly ignorant of all the laws of the production and distribution of wealth." Review, October, 1819.

A LOVER OF HIS COUNTRY.

Proprietors of the Limerick Chronicle.
The following extract from "The Spirit of the Antiquity of Mr. Owen's Plan, and forms materials with which he has arranged his theory. The author's chapter on the institutions among the ancients, with the passages to which I have alluded: "I shall attempt hereafter to introduce such institutions, must establish the community of goods, as Plato's Republic; that high respect be paid to the Gods; that separation from strangers for the sake of people's morals; and an extensive common by the community, and not by private individuals, must give our arts without our luxury, and without our desires. They must proscribe money, which is to swell people's fortunes beyond the reach of nature, to learn to preserve for no use, but to be idly hoarded up; to multiply without need, and to supply the sterility of nature, of whom we have scanty means of inflaming our passions, and to give each other."

The Persons Insured at this Office do not depend upon an uncertain fund or contribution, nor are they, or their Properties, subject to covenants, or liable by Acts of Parliament, to make good the Losses which may happen—the real Capital Stock of the Corporation being an unquestionable Security to the Assured: The experience of a Century confirms the stability, and shews the unerring wisdom and superiority of this Ancient Establishment.
