THE LOCAL INSPECTOR OF THE CITY GAOL.

As public Journals ought never to suffer the slightest shade of misrepresentation to remain unnoticed and unrebuked, we should every opportunity be happy to state, that some unwelcome upon the individual who may be found to have misrepresented the duties with which he is entrusted by this province, the deserved castigation pronounced by the Grand Jury and Justice Judge Burton, the Inspector of the City Gaol, while charging the City Grand Jury, would have received our most cordial approbation; but not a great accumulation of unfavourable matter crowded on our columns. The prisons are only of late years, on the whole England, were, until recently, under the most deplorable mismanagement. Instead of being places of punishment, solitudes and reformation, they were the theatres of turpitude, the nurseries of drunkenness, profligacy, and crime. Almost every species of debauchery, were not only and constantly practised within their walls, but the conditions of the prisoners were neglected, the public money was lavished, and the grossest profligacy prevailed within, while profligacy was practised without; and in the midst of this scene of wretchedness and misery the interests of an unknown and depraved apathy on the part of public men, that the prisons of England were brought to a proper condition. Gaolers are capable of paying various sufferers by the negligence and incapacity of prison officers. From these evils our prisons were not, perhaps, altogether exempt; but if they were the evils were of a much less magnitude than those we have stated. Under the vigilant and salutary inspection of Mr. Sergeant Arabin, the prisons of this City have been conducted in a most humane and praiseworthy manner—order and regularity established—cleanliness observed—comfort and health afforded—and a moral and habitual economy exercised whereby as a natural saving of £400 has been made in the support of the prisoners (as the learned Judge stated,) "more and less done." Mr. Arabin (Mr. M.) is the individual who is censured in the Star, much was now brought to greater perfection, economy being the conduct followed, and the prisoners were more orderly." This is indeed a proud and pure attestation of Mr. Arabin's conduct in the honest and efficient discharge of his duty; and still further to be properly appreciated by the public, as the most competent and adequate remuneration for services which have at once contributed to the benefit of the public and honor to himself.

The City Grand Jury have appointed the following as the Board of Superintendance of the City Jail, agreeably to the act of Parliament:—The Mayor, Sir Christopher Carleton, Henry Watson, Aldermen Warburton, Watson, Gibbons, and Crombie, Colonel O'Donnell, C. B. Thomas Bunn, Bailey Dobbs, Captain Wallace, and Captain John Vereker.

In consequence of the peaceable state of the Counties, and the expense attending the due administration of the Insurrection Act, the City Grand Jury have recommended to the Magistrates to take into their consideration the necessity of applying to the Lord Lieutenant to relieve their Baillwick from the continuance of the Act for the present.

The Mayor and Magistrates of the City Limerick, have established Petty Sessions in this City on a similar plan, as adopted through some of the Counties in Ireland.

Mr. Richard Boucher is elected Apothecary to the City Jail, vice Cregan, deceased.

John Franks, Esq. is appointed Counsel to aid in conducting the Crown prosecutions in the Quarter Sessions, vice Hugh Hill, Esq. dec.

The Lord Chief Baron arrived here on Wednesday, from the Home Circuit.

Yesterday the entire Garrison, composed of 2 Brigade Royal Artillery, 12th Royal Lancers, 23d Royal Fusileers and 51st Regiment, were inspected at the New Barracks, by Major Gen. Sir John Elley, K.C.B. who afterwards formed the whole into a Brigade, and marched through the city towards Glenmungret, and returned to their quarters by the Old Town—the appearance of the troops was much respectable, and the scene was truly gratifying.

The Colonelcies of the 11th and 84th Regiments are vacant by the deaths of Sir Charles Asgill and Sir Denis Pack.

It is said that General Montresor gets the 11th, and Lord C. H. Somerset the 84th—Lord Aylmer succeeds to the Governorship of Plymouth, vice Sir Denis Pack, deceased.

On the night of Monday, the 30th inst. at Coppanclane, in this County, adjoining the residence of Richard Masters, Esq. of Ballintray, was broken into the house of Andrew Sullivan, who nearly murdered three men that were in the employment of Lady Osmond, and were doing dairy relative to the premises.

Yesterday evening, Patrick Reedy, a convalescent lunatic, strangled himself in the House of Industry over the Asylum Gate, and was dead a few moments before when the poor man appeared to be quite composed.
