a son.

In Dublin, the Lady of Francis Blackburne, Esq. of a son.

In Dublin, the Lady of Henry J. Loughnan, Esq. of a son.

In Clonmel, the Lady of D. Cantwell, Esq. of a daughter.

At Camberwell, the Lady of Sir Robert Graham, of a son.

At Woolley-Park, Yorkshire, the Lady of Lieut.-Colonel Clements, M. P. of a son.

MARRIAGES.

In Dublin, John Jackson, Esq. of Armagh, to Louisa, daughter of Sir William Stamer, Bart.

In Cork, Mr. James O'Donnell, to Miss Mary Anne White.

In London, the Lady of Sir C. Coote, M. P. of a daughter.

George B. Aitchison, Esq. to Anne Elizabeth Isabella Trotter Ruthven, eldest daughter of the late J. T. Ruthven, Esq. of the County Down.

Frederica Anne, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Stephens.

At Bombay, G. B. Aitchison, Esq. to the daughter of J.
S. Ruthern, Esq. of the County Down, Ireland.

DEATHS.

On Thursday morning, in Thomas-street, Mrs. Kelly, wife of Thomas Kelly, Esq. Merchant—a Lady most sincerely and deservedly regretted.

Yesterday, at Kilrush, Margaretta, wife of Michael Cr-agh, Esq.

On Sunday, at Mallow, Henry Vere, youngest son of the late Benjamin White, Esq. of this city.

On Thursday evening, at his house on the Terrace, Cork, of a Fever, Ephraim Adams, Esq.—As a son, a brother, a husband, a parent, and a friend, he was rarely equalled—never excelled! His honor, integrity, amiable disposition and unassuming manners, as a Merchant, are well known to his Fellow-citizens; but his private worth can only be appreciated by those who had the happiness of being intimately acquainted with him, and by his sorrowing and truly afflicted family.

In King-street, Dublin, James Milton, Esq.

In the County Waterford, Colonel Robert Unincker.

In Dublin, Mr. William Burke, Wool Stapler to the Farming Society of Ireland.

John Bass, Esq. late Merchant of Cork.

At Powerstown Giehe, Mrs. Cliffe, relict of the late Rev.
John Cliffe, of New-Ross.

At Hatley, Co. Leitrim, the Rev. Newcomen Whitelaw.

In Cork, Mr. John Conn.

In Crow-street, Dublin, Mr. Cumberland Young.

At Kingstown, Mrs. O'Ryan, relict of the late Andrew O'Ryan, Esq. M. D. of Dublin.

In Cork, Mrs. Ashton, relict of the late William Ashton, Esq. of Donernile.

At Rahoon, near Galway, James Bodkin, Esq.

In Camden-street, Dublin, Mr. Charles Denn.

In Edinburgh, Mrs. Nickle, wife of Major Nickle, 89th.

At Brighton, Elizabeth Helena, only child of the late Hon. John Percival.

Colonel Lyon. He expired in the arms of his son, Captain Lyon, of the Hecla, recently returned from the Northern Expedition.

At Colchester, Adjutant Bell, of the Essex Militia.

At Ravensworth Castle, County Durham, the Hon. Frances Jane Liddell, second daughter of Lord Ravensworth.

At Paris, Captain Hood Knight, R. N.

At Somerset-House, the residence of his Uncle, in the County of Galway, on Wednesday the 5th inst in the 17th year of his age, George Abbott, Esq. His amiable dispositions rendered him the comfort of his disconsolate mother in the most trying situations—though young in years he was old in understanding—he is gone, but the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance—and it is only with the Heavenly Father that he can reap the reward of the many virtues that distinguished the few short years that he was lent to her.—He has left many friends who deeply and justly lament his loss.

THE MARKETS.

We had a better supply of Wheat at our Market this day than last, and more buyers having attended there was a greater eagerness to purchase—at the commencement good
