DEATHS.

On Wednesday last, at his brother's seat, Waterville, in this county, Richard Crough, Esq. a gentleman whose virtues gained him the esteem and admiration of a numerous and respectable acquaintance, and whose honorable conduct thro' life afforded a bright example for imitation.

At Rathkeale, on Saturday last, of a long and tedious illness, Richard Crips, Esq. in the 22d year of his age.—The early departure of this most excellent young man to another and better world, has overwhelmed his disconsolate parent and family, with his numerous and most respectable relatives and friends, in the deepest affliction. If an amiable disposition and unblemished character; if feelings and conduct directed by the most honorable principles; if piety, sincere and divested of ostentation, or enthusiasm, could insure certainty to hope, the fondest expectations of his family and friends would, had he lived, have been fully realized. Calm, contented and resigned, he marked the advance of approaching death with that resolution which religion alone can bestow, and as he endeavoured to live as far as the meekness of human nature would allow, devoid of offence towards God and towards man, it may with equal propriety be said, that he quietly fell asleep in the Lord full of hope and full of heaven.—His remains were, on Tuesday last, conveyed for interment to the family burial ground, at Cahinarry, where they were met by many of his most respectable relatives and friends, whose deeply felt sorrow revealed the respect and love which they had so justly cherished for the deceased and his virtues.

On the 1st instant, at Clermont, near Nenagh, Mrs. Sargent, wife of William Sargent, Esq. of Clonmel, a Lady whose life adorned the doctrine of God her Saviour, and whose patience and submission to the will of her Heavenly Father, were evinced during a long and most painful state of bodily affliction; as her dissolution approached, she manifested an increasing resignation to the divine will; and in the midst of her sufferings, both acknowledged and felt the goodness of God, on whose dear Son she rested all her hopes of a happy eternity.

At Ballykeale, County Clare, suddenly, much regretted, Austin Lysaght, Esq. Attorney.

In Clare-street, on Wednesday, much regretted, William, son of Captain D. L'Acy.

Aged 84, Samuel Lloyd, Esq. of Fort-Richard, Co. Cork. William Nassau Nettles, Esq.

In Dublin of a tedious illness, Mr. Joseph Crowe, Printer, late of this City, son of the late William Crowe, Esq.

On Saturday, the Rev. William Gorman, brother-in-law to the Lord Chief Justice Bushe, and Rector of the parishes of Kilmora and Ballyninglasson, in the diocese of Meath.

At Cahinush, County Clare, Mrs. Catherine Wolfe, relict of John Wolfe, Esq.

Robert Hamilton, of Leake-mount, County Tyrone, Esq. Mr. Andrew Edmondson, Billetmaster of Castlebar.

In Leinster-street, Dublin, Mrs. O'Neill, wife of John O'Neill, Esq. Accountant-General of the Exchequer.

In Kilkenny, aged 90 years, Miss Alice Langton.

At West Ower, County Galway, on the 4th inst. after a few days illness, in the 85th year of his age, Rev. Francis Mahon, P. P. of Kildennin for upwards of 40 years.

At Middlesex, aged 78, Thomas Hussey, Esq. of Gattrim, County Meath, formerly M. P. for Aylesbury.

At his house, in London, on Saturday last, at the advanced age of 88, William Cooke, Esq. formerly of the city of Cork. Lieutenant Colonel Sierwood, of the Bengal Artillery.

At Cheltenham, Mrs. Ann Hunt, the celebrated Quaker Preacher.

In Paris, Walter, only son of the late Earl of Airlay.

At St. Petersburg, the Duchess of Wartenberg, aunt to Prince Leopold.

At Broom-House, Fullam, the Dowager Countess of Lonsdale.

At Bath George Schonles, Esq. late of Derby.

George Sidley, Esq. Second Master Attendant at Plymouth-yard, (to which situation he had been recently appointed) being the very day when he was to assume his duties, and little more than one week after marriage to an amiable wife, who scarcely became so ere she was a widow. His death is very much regretted. He was a native of Kilmora, County Clare.
