on Saturday, several persons were convicted in the sum of £20, for keeping greyhounds and other sporting dogs, without license.

The Town Clerk's Office, in the Exchange, was broken into on Monday night, and some money taken out of a desk.

Monday, the Mayor lodged in the City Jail, Mary Malone, for uttering a six-shilling token, knowing it to be a counterfeit.

A child was left by its unnatural parent in a house in Bridge-street, on Monday evening; it has not since been claimed.

At two o'clock on Monday, the store of Mr.
Murphy, of Youghal, took fire, and the building with its contents has been entirely consumed.—

The fire raged with such violence that in order to prevent its extension it was found necessary to pull down one of the adjoining houses. There were in the stores 500 firkins of butter with a quantity of corn and rock. The premises and for Foreign Packets.

The new military line from Newcastle to Abbeyfeal and Castle Island goes on with rapidity, by which the hills are entirely avoided without any material addition to the distance; several small bridges have been already finished, the one at Abbeyfeal reflects great credit on the Engineer: that over the Feale, two miles beyond the village, is to be one arch 72 feet wide, and the road over it 32 feet in breadth.—

TUESDAY, JULY 6.

The sittings of the Court were continued this day.
The following Insolvents were discharged:—

Michael Curry, Robert Carroll, Michael Hanlon, Dalton, Michael Connors, Daniel Connolly, Wm.
Denis Flin, John Fitzgerald, and Patrick Lehane.

Denis Leo was opposed, and his petition dismissed for formality, and irregularity in the preparation of his petition.

Denis Hartnett was opposed by the Rev. Joseph Edward Geratty, not giving up all the deeds and connected with property he held from Mr. Bateman, villa. From the inability of the Insolvent to Court upon this subject, his case was ordered to stand over to the next Circuit.

Simon Kirchner, Cabinet-maker, was opposed of William Hartshorn, who bound his son to him at the time an apprentice fee of £10, two days the Insolvent absconded with the money, leaving destitute and unprotected. It appeared that he benefit of the Act before this in 1822. The Judge his petition, and he was in consequence remanded to Jail.

Thomas Fallabee was opposed by Captain Corbett, his petition dismissed for irregularity.

In all cases where the petitions were discharged the Insolvents were remanded to Jail.

In consequence of complaints made on Monday regular practitioners of the Court to Mr. Parsons

It is ordered by the Court that Felix Charles O'Connell
