...of fever. the widow of the late lamented Charles Spread,
...Esq. for many years the humane and valued agent to the
...Landsdown estates in this province. The death of this
...inestimable Lady, we may say in the prime of Life,
...leaving a numerous and young family, is truly to be
...lamented. She lived in the esteem of a highly respecta-
...ble circle of acquaintance, and her premature dissolution
...is deeply deplored by them; as exclusive of her many
...other virtues, her attachment and devotion to her children
...entitled her to the esteem and admiration of her friends.

...worthy of their consideration, he did not know what was.
...After this to withdraw his motion! But Mr. Rice stated
...that his purpose was answered by the debate, and he trusted
...that it would give fresh hopes to the Catholics of Ireland
...when it would reach them. So it ought, for it will show
...them that the speeches are at any rate undiminished in
...length, which certainly is a great point. And as to Mr.
...R's. purpose being answered, I disagree with him—for
...though he dilated on "Ireland's wrongs," yet, by the
...mistakes he committed "in that warmth which betrays
...the soul," it will be deprived of that grand and imposing
...effect it might otherwise have.

I remain, Gentlemen,
