Sir,
" I this day saw in the Limerick rt of a correspondence between you and the subject of the Valuation Bill now in induces me to remind you of the intoleunder which the Inhabitants of the Old erick and the Farmers in the Liberties peration of an Act of the Irish Parliament, he late Lord Perry, in which it is enacted, then paying Grand Jury taxes by the acre so to do. The Parish of Saint Michael, the subject of Mr. Rice's communication e property of Lord Limerick, and in ely all the wealthy inhabitants reside, and t may be now called the City of Limerick, e in fields, paying taxes by the acre, and Abbey River from the Old Town, com-assed, Lord Perry got a grant from Parlia-ct this ground by a bridge with the Old ding out the advantage of its paying no egan rapidly to desert the Old Town and New, and up to this time they have been ted from Grand Jury Cess, except an annual undred Pounds, which under an Act of the ament this Parish is bound to pay, to the al, House of Industry and Gaol, in such the Grand Jury may direct—but except aid, and which is confined to the purposes ned, they contribute nothing, and thus the n the Liberties and the occupiers of the Old Town, fast going to decay, have to pay olic buildings, the new lines of roads, the olic officers and the Police, all of which are accommodation or protection of the rich, ing for them, than of those on whom the sively falls. Whether this is a state of olerated I leave to your better judgment.—

DEATHS.

On Sunday morning, at his house in George's-street, rather suddenly, Mr. Samuel Alexander, many years an eminent Grocer and Wine Merchant in this City, and a member of the Society of Friends. Mr. Alexander was possessed of some of the best feelings of our nature—he was uniformly correct in his intercourse with society, and a zealous friend of most of the public institutions of Limerick—charitable and humane, his attention was ever directed to the welfare of his less fortunate fellow-creatures, while, in the relations of private life, his conduct as a parent was worthy of imitation. His death is deeply lamented in all ranks of society.
At Castle-Connell, Margaret, wife of Mr. Michael Enright.
