To the Editor of the Limerick Chronicle.
 Sir—Through the medium of your paper, I would beg leave respectfully to suggest to the successful candidates, at the present election, the example so worthy of imitation, set by the members returned for Carlow, and that of the members for the Metropolis, who instead of the useless, and unprofitable, expenditure, attending the pageantry of a chairing, applied the money adequate thereto, to the far more urgent, (and no doubt to their own feelings more gratifying) claims of Charity. In so doing I by no means advocate the cause of any of our public institutions, exclusively, and though I would not presume to apportion that sum, or sums, which I would anxiously rescue from the purposes of drunkenness, idleness, and disorder, yet would I say in the hope, that this may meet the eye of those for whom it is intended, that the parishes of our city, in which are scenes of wretchedness and misery, to which in common with my fellow pastors, I am daily called, should not be forgotten; and where are many, without distinction of creed, to be ashamed, and to labour unable, through want, disease, and nakedness, and whose alone comforts, save those of religion, in the hour of death are a bed of straw (in many cases not even this) and drink cold water.—I am Sir, your obedient servant.
