I CERTIFY that my Son, aged twelve, has been afflicted from his infancy with a distressing impediment of speech. This increased as he advanced in age, and was so deeply rooted as to banish from my mind every prospect, even the possibility of cure. I was in agony to myself, and pain to those who loved me, when he pronounced the few words which he had been tempted to articulate. The young man, however, shunned all society, and his spirits became so low as to threaten a decline. However, upon the arrival of ROY'S arrival in Limerick, I placed him in his care, and in the very short space of four weeks he was enabled to perceive, that he not only spoke distinctly, but read for a quarter of an hour with a bold, and lofty voice, without the usual tremor. This is now the ninth day since his cure. Mr. CONROY, and from the surprising and incredible change which has taken place in his situation, I have no doubt that a complete cure will be the speed, and final result. I feel a great pleasure in thus expressing my gratitude to Mr. ROY, and also I consider it to be due to the public to state this circumstance, that others may have the opportunity of being benefited by it.
