INCORRODIBLE MINERAL TEETH.

SURGEON BRODIE, DENTIST,
BEGS leave to inform the Nobility and Gentry of this City and County, that he continues to insert Artificial Teeth, singly or in sets, on a new and much improved principle, and without causing the slightest pain or inconvenience to the wearer. He thinks it scarcely necessary to state, that his education as a Medical man, must afford him advantage in the performance of operations and the treatment of diseases connected with Dental Surgery, which cannot be possessed by any mere Dentist. Surgeon B. invites public attention to the much admired newly invented MINERAL TEETH, which have been admitted by all who have seen them, to be a most perfect imitation of nature—a large supply of these he has lately brought over with him from Paris, (where he received his professional education) and begs leave most particularly to recommend, as they never become discoloured or impart a disagreeable odour to the breath, objections which most certainly apply to the Artificial Teeth generally used in this country. He engages these Mineral Teeth to resist the strongest acids or a most intense heat, and will submit them to any test which may be considered necessary. Surgeon B. particularly recommends the Rying the as prepared by him, for preserving and Teeth, may be had at his residence, No. 22, GLENTWORTH February 20.
