

pleased to appoint Colonel Clitor of Militia Clothing. They are all alike. With a view to ecob the sole distinction, so that, in from one regiment to another, this will be the only alteration

Military promotion will take place day prior to that on which his will hold his first levee. The promotion to the rank of Rear-Admiral will be F. L. Maitland, C. B. now in command of the ship Wellesley, comprehending the rank of Captain, on June 14, 1799, to March 21st, 1800. A proportionate number of Officers in the profession will be promoted. Vacancies in all the yachts, Marines, and three Commissioners will hold these appointments take motion of Vice-Admirals to the include Sir Philip Durham, and ineligible for the command at Sir John Beresford is to succeed. It is said, is to be appointed to the command of the George yacht.

his intention of proroguing on Friday next. Great preparations for the House of Lords.

that the old naval uniforms be for us late Majesty will cease Guards trooped off with music, the death of the late King. Fitzgibbon's Address from Mount Independent Electors of this County, columns. A warm contest that Mr. Barrington is conducting for Mr. Levers for Mr. Massy for Colonel O'Grady. Dawson, Esq. arrived in this morning, and yesterday was engaged in the County.

daily expected here to follow up London yesterday, for this City. the constituency by letter. busily engaged in the City and will be in full play; the treasury is sanguine of success. arrived in this city yesterday evening way to Clare, for the representation he starts at the approaching he left for the eastern district of follow up his political intentions, at, the freeholders of the barony retired from the representation The Candidates now are the W. Browne, and Major Crosbie, son of the Earl of Cork, array, at Lord Dungarvan's, and for the City Cork on Monday. the County Cork, every County be contested the approaching County, and County Kildare, lectures. At Galway, and his lady, passed the town of Galway, it certainly is alarming. The first instance in the history of the County of Galway, and other districts, the people to meet the Liberator at Craheen Cross.

pressive discourse, delivered by the Rev. Mr. Gubbins, after only a few hours preparation, should, independent of his other acknowledged claims, entitle him to the favorable consideration of our worthy Lord Bishop.

Thursday being the day appointed for the funeral and interment of our late most revered Monarch, all the shops in Cork were closed from an early hour. The Public Offices, Custom-house, Courts, Markets, and all other places, except where business could not conveniently be suspended, were also closed; and the City presented, for the greater part, much the appearance of Sunday.

We have to state that the following persons who were wounded during the late shameful attack upon the stores and military, have recovered, viz—Patrick Kelly, wound in the abdomen; Patrick Walsh, small shot wounds; Michael Flin, wound of the nose; Michael Molony, wound in the groin; John Enright, wound in the hip; Michael Dea, general contusion; and James Harty, wound in the knee, leg amputated. The above persons beg leave to express their gratitude to Surgeon Thwaites, (under whose care they were,) for his prompt and unremitting attention to them while in the Infirmary, and thro' whose skill and exertions, under the direction of Providence, they have recovered.

Patrick Mahony, a comfortable farmer from Liskenett, in this County, died suddenly on Wednesday of intoxication, at New-Bridge, near Rathkeale. Mr. Cox, the Coroner, held an inquest on the body.

Thomas Dalton, a pensioner from the 87th or Royal Irish Fusiliers, was interred yesterday. The funeral was attended by at least 200 of his veteran comrades, walking two and two, twelve preceding the coffin, dressed in scarfs and hatbands. He was buried out of the fund lately formed for that purpose; and the respectable appearance of the procession reflects much credit on the general body of the Pensioners in this district.

Number of persons appearing on the Calendar for trial, at the next assizes of Clare.—Abduction 1; appearing armed at night, attacking houses, &c. 9; arson 2; assault (life in danger) 1; burglary and assault, and robbery of arms 8; cattle stealing 6; distilling illegally 1; obtaining money under false pretences 1; robbery 3; house robbery 8; larceny 4; murder 1 1/2; misdemeanour 2; rape 4; receiving stolen goods 2; riot, breaking and plundering boats of potatoes 2; sheep stealing 3; uttering base coin 1; total 72.—Together with about 20 cases bailed before commitment and postponed since last assizes.

Thursday, the Rev. Dr. Foster, Vicar General, held the Annual Visitation at Tralee church. The attendance of Clergymen was by no means numerous—and the Visitation Sermon was preached by the Rev. Richard Legge Tyner.

The Lord Lieutenant has been pleased to present the Rectory of Raddinstown, in the Diocese of Meath, to the Rev. Joseph Turner, vacant by the death of the late Rev. Ponsonby Gouldsbury.

The Lord Chancellor has appointed Richard Lane, Esq. Barrister at Law, to the situation of Commissioner of Bankrupts, vacant by the appointment of T. B. Smith, Esq. to be one of his Majesty's Counsel.

Orders have been issued to the Officers of Excise in Ireland, to take an account of, and ascertain the quantity of spirits in the stocks of distillers, and in warehouse under the King's locks, on the 14th June.

In consequence of some success gained by Sir Edward O'Brien, respecting property for many years subject to litigation, the town of Clare was illuminated on Saturday evening, and bonfires blazed on several of the surrounding hills.

The letter of a County Freeholder, in another column, is highly deserving of attention.

The following placard was yesterday posted up, at Quinlan's Hotel, Mr. Steele:—

Mr. Steele will leave Limerick on Sunday morning on his way to the mountains. He is gone to the mountains and other districts, to meet the Liberator at Craheen Cross.

ation's power of voice. It is ren-regiment of the very highest order and melodious, and in some notes of melody singularly beautiful.
efforts were "Savourneen Dheclish roaming." In those two delightful the most exquisite taste, and was ent Miss Paton and Mr. Wood, of Co
this evening only at the Theatre, C Miss Paton will appear in Cork

TO THE EDITOR

Sir—I have the happiness to con-of this, my native County, that the hands a great constitutional power, to exercise it with honesty and didates for their favour are all in th then look carefully to their ow for no man unless they have a distin from the hustings, that he will not who will propose the imposition of impoverished country. I am, Sir, y
A L

Limerick, July 17, 1830.

New Edition of the Encyclopaedia

The first part of the New Editio able work has just been publishe such as must give entire satisfacti of the public. It is handsomely p
; the plates are well executed;
with the care, research, and to distinguish such a work.
former editions will no doubt

The eminent writers who co
Supplement, and several others
Napier, in revising, correct the Encyclopaedia; and it will c old work, with all the scientifi

We are glad to see that Sir contribute a Dissertation on the E 16th and 18th centuries as a Preliminary Discourse
in the Supplement.—Leeds

DEATHS.

In Upper William-street, Mrs. P
At Munro, near Ardlinan, Jam late of the 62d Regiment, you James Butler, Esq. of Curraghee
and heir presumptive to the Caber

Lady Catherine O'Donel, relict of Bart. and daughter to the Earl of Ar
At Mullaghmore, the seat of her Very, Esq. Mrs. Kearney, widow of t of County

In Tipperary, Robert, son of Josep
At Gurtascreena, Co. Cork, Char
In Bandon, Stewart, son of Robert
At Warrenpoint, Miss H Purdon,
B. Purdon, of Newry, Esq

At the Deanery House, Armagh, M
At Newtownlinavady, John Ross,
In Galway, Mrs Fitzpatrick, relict
Fitzpatrick, Esq. for many years May Charlotte, third daughter of Robert of Carlow.

In Kiltiney, the Rev. Joseph Pow
At Hackney, Matthew Evan Thom
At Durham, the wife of Lieutenan and sister to Sir Robert Eden, Bart.

At Woolwich, Maria Sophia, wife
Royal Artillery.
At his lodgings, Great George's
A. Carswell, Esq. M. D. Surgeon
Company's Bombay Establishment.

Mr. Robert S. Kearns, of Ann-st
In Dundalk, on Friday last, the Nelson.