lock yesterday four companies of the 17th Lancers, under command of Major Clarke, with a train of baggage, marched into this City.

Two companies of the 76th Regiment, under Major Stevenson, including band and colours, arrived in Dublin. They are a fine body of men, and highly well after a long and fatiguing march. The 1st Battalion of the King's Rifles, 2d Battalion, in Manchester, daily expect the route for Ennis.

Butler's sheep that were on the land, driven out on the roads. The walls at Dromore were also levelled, and the herdsman ordered to drive the cattle into this town.

At four o'clock on Sunday evening, Mr. Thomas Blake, son of Mr. Patrick Blake, at Blakemount, was put on his knees, a drunken man holding a blunderbuss to his breast, and another a sword over his head, threatening instant destruction, for not obeying a former mandate.

Mr. Henry John M'Cooke was visited by the same party shortly after, for arms, and his furniture broken, and his saddle cut to pieces.

Thursday night, the house of Mr. Griffin, at Ardsallas, near Newmarket, was a second time attacked by the Insurgents, who took away a sword. They had on the former visit procured a gun. On this occasion they broke the windows, and forced Mr. Griffin to promise a reduction of rents on his farm; also, to return ground he had taken from a defaulting tenant.

Several head of black cattle, dry and milch cows, were driven into our market this day, from the County Clare, to be sold for whatever they bring, the owners being obliged to quit their farms by order of the Clare Legislators.

One of the most desperate characters in the whole country of the name of Hartigan, was on Wednesday morning taken by the police, under direction of Tomkins Brew, Esq.

We are informed that 15 Rockettes, in arms, have been taken by Tomkins Brew, Esq. and a detachment of Military near Corofin. This news has likewise appeared in a Cotemporary, but we have received no confirmation of it.

The following is a copy of a notice placarded by Mr. Steele in the Court House:—

"To the Perpetrators of Outrage in Clare.

"Lough O'Connell, April 13, 1831.

"Unless you desist, I denounce you as Traitors to the cause of the liberty of Ireland. I and the other friends of the people will advise you no more, since you follow the councils of miscreant villains, and not the advice of O'Connell, your Clergy, and the other friends of the country.

"I leave you to the Government, and the fire and the bayonets of the Military. Your Blood be upon your own Souls.

"THOMAS STEELE."

Truly may it be said that the cause is hopeless, when abandoned by Thomas Steele. Immediately after Mr. Steele posted his address on the Court-House, he mounted on horse-back and rode to a place among the mountains on the borders of Galway, where he had information that a very numerous body of the Terry Alts would be assembled.

The paragraph which appeared in the Chronicle of Wednesday last, relating the visit of two armed men to the house of a butcher named Spellicy, in Mill-street, Ennis, and the outrage there committed, was copied verbatim from a Cotemporary in Ennis; and the Clare Journal, we take it, must have known that fact, when he contradicted a statement, which never originated with us, having been extracted from a Newspaper within a few yards of his own Office. Were we to detail all the reports we hear of outrages in Clare, our columns would hold no other intelligence, and in what we do publish it is our anxious desire to be particularly careful of its authenticity.

In fourth page will be seen the letter of Doctor M'Mahon, Roman Catholic Bishop of Killaloe, to the peasantry of Clare on the subject of the existing outrages.

The address of William S. O'Brien, Esq. M.P. to the peasantry in the disturbed districts of Clare, shall appear if possible in our next.

The Speech of his Majesty's Attorney-General, at the opening of the Adjourned Assizes of Ennis, appears at full length in our front page.

Within the last six weeks five threatening notices have been posted up in the neighbourhoods of Listowell and Tarbert, viz. Lisilton, at Tarbert, at the Knight's Bridge, (within two miles of Listowell) at Ballylongford, on the Public Beam to which the scales are hung, and at Ahafona, between Listowell and Ballyunion, all the places with the exception of the Knight's Bridge, are on the borders of the Shannon.

trates have instituted an inquiry, as the contagion is suspected to have been malicious.

On Friday night a field of four acres on the lands of Castle Bank, near this city, held by Mr. Donnelly, was turned up. This is an instance of ingratitude on the part of the peasantry, as Mr. D. has expended a very large sum of money on the improvement of his farm, and has given constant employment to 16 or 20 labourers for the last fourteen years, and in addition to this, Mrs. D. devotes a very large portion of her time in administering medicine to the poor of the neighbourhood, so that her house has very frequently the appearance of a Dispensary.

A Rockite notice was removed by the Police from the Cross of Ballynanty, near Bruff, on Thursday morning. The notice called upon the parishioners of Bruff, Meanus, and Graigue, of all and every grade, to assemble at their peril on Friday at Ballynanty, and without fail, "by order of our Legislator—God save the King." The object was to turn up the lands of Mrs. Creech. The Authorities we believe were on the alert to disperse this illegal and tumultuous assembly.

A Terry Alt's missionary, from Clare, was apprehended at Pallas-Kerry, on Thursday, by Chief Constable Laurensen and a party of his Police. On his person was found a Terry Alt's Catechism, in the form of question and answer. The name of this fellow is Lot M'Inerney.

Daniel Barrington, of this City, Esq. has been appointed a Magistrate of the Counties of Limerick and Tipperary.

Wednesday morning as the Tralee Mail-Coach was setting off from that town for this City, the horses took fright, and dashed with such rapidity through the streets, as to throw the driver and guard out of their seats, and they fell with violence against the pavement. The former was taken up and found to have sustained such injury as incapacitated him from proceeding. A second driver was procured, and the Coach arrived in town at the usual hour. The guard was not much hurt.

Yesterday, a soldier of the 76th Regt. named Chandler, who had left Dublin in one of the Canal boats for this City, in charge of some regimental baggage, met a serious accident near Ghalogue bridge, under which the boat was passing. By some awkward movement he got wedged with part of the baggage against the stonework of the archway, and was dreadfully injured in the head and breast. He is not expected to recover. The boat was running along at the moment and nothing could extricate him from the collision, dreadful as it was unexpected.

The entire baggage of the 76th Regiment was conveyed to this City from Dublin, by the Shannon Navigation Company, at an expense of only a third of what it would have been by land carriage.

The remains of Lieutenant and Quarter-master Nicholson, 17th Lancers, were this day interred with military honours in Munchin's Church-yard. The cavalcade moved from the Artillery barrack at three o'clock, preceded by the Grenadiers of the 56th Regiment, which composed the firing party, the band of the 17th Lancers, in rich uniform, playing a solemn dirge, the bier and pall supported by four brother Officers in splendid full dress, horse of the deceased officer in sable housings led by two Lancers, a strong division of the Lancers with lances reversed, and flags drooping to the earth, all the Officers in garrison, and Colonel Worsley, Royal Artillery. The mournful procession was attended to the grave-yard by vast crowds of people.

The City Quarter Sessions terminated yesterday evening. The following were convicted and sentenced by the Recorder:—Male prisoners, to be transported for 7 years—Michael Green, William Hurley, and Patrick Sheahan, larceny. Martin, James Connors, James Harnett, John O'Brien, Thomas Sullivan, and William Sullivan—for two months, David Walsh—for one month, Timothy Roughan, John Ryan, Michael Fanning.—Female prisoners: to be transported for 7 years, Bridget Connors, and Mary Doran—to be imprisoned one month, Mary O'Brien and Mary Brown.

Wednesday, in the County Quarter Sessions Court, two Policemen were fined 10s. each by the Barrister, for placing their carbines in the dock among the prisoners, and quitting the Court.—The penalty was preceded by a severe but very just reprimand.
