DEATHS.

On Saturday, in Roche's-street, much lamented by his family and friends, John, son of the late Robert Foulds, Esq. Captain Elgin Fencibles.

On Sunday, the 17th instant, at Riverston, near Corofin, Maria, wife of John Morgan, Esq. A faithful wife, an affectionate parent, and a sincere friend, she conciliated the esteem of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. During a protracted painful illness, she was enabled to "endure as seeing Him who is invisible," counting that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the joy that shall be revealed. She departed from this earthly scene, meekly resigned to the will of her Creator, and in humble but firm reliance on the merits of that Blessed Redeemer who hath deprived the grave of its victory and death of its sting. Her remains were interred this day, in the family vault at Munchin's Church.

On Saturday last, in the 62d year of his age, of a sudden relapse of paralysis, Edmond Power, Esq. late of Powerville, Tipperary. A Gentleman so superior to the artifices and vanities of the world that panegyric can do but little justice to the innocence, purity, and integrity of his life. An undeviating rectitude of conduct,—a warmth and sincerity of affection,—a genuine sense of honour, truth, and candour,—a sterling uprightness and honesty of purpose, which he never compromised,—all these were combined in an eminent degree to form a character which from its own elements rendered him universally respected,—esteemed by his more intimate acquaintances, and beloved by those who, as relatives and friends, were enabled to know and appreciate the goodness of his heart, and the many other virtues he possessed.

In Boyle, on Sunday evening last, of inflammation on the chest, in the 35th year of her age, Mrs. Bromell, wife of John Bromell, Esq. Proprietor of the Roscommon and Leitrim Gazette, and second daughter of the late Captain Lowry Drought, of the 14th Dragoons. The premature death of this excellent Lady, whose amiable character and highly cultivated mind had won for her the love and admiration of all classes of society, has plunged into deep and inexpressible affliction, a large, young, and interesting family, as well as a numerous and respectable circle of Friends. In all the relations of domestic life, equally estimable and affectionate, she pre-eminently possessed and exercised the invaluable qualities of a fond and devoted wife, a kind and attentive mother, and a sincere and constant Friend. When the period of her dissolution at length arrived, she evinced that christian fortitude and resignation to the Divine Will which a lively faith in the atoning merits of her Redeemer can alone bestow; and as she displayed in life all those virtuous traits of character which can adorn human nature, so was her latter end blessed with that glorious hope which sheds a halo around the departing spirit of the Christian.
