J. Quantock, Esq. many years Captain in the Queen's Bays, and lately High Sheriff of Somerset.

In Tralee on Sunday night Barry Leake, Esq. who had for several years held a respectable situation in the Excise Department. He retired to rest on that evening at half-past 9 o'clock in apparently perfect health, and, melancholy to relate, was found next morning a lifeless corpse. The sudden death of this Gentleman has created a considerable feeling of regret as he was justly esteemed for an upright and honourable demeanour and a most inoffensive disposition. An inquest was held on the body that night by James McGillycuddy, Esq. when the following verdict was returned:—We find that the deceased came by his death, as we believe, from the evidence of Doctor Quill, by a fit of apoplexy.

At his residence in Brunswick-square, Bristol, John Hall, Esq. of the firm of Parsons, Hales, and Co. linen merchants, High-street. This gentleman had been attending divine service at St. Paul's, but upon his return he was extremely agitated by the very alarming accounts brought from the city, and soon after complained of an intense pain in his head; professional advice was immediately procured, but he soon afterwards fell into a state of insensibility, and continued so until he expired on Tuesday evening. He was a gentleman universally beloved and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Hall was in his 61st year.

At Pisa, Miss Marie Françoise Amethisse Henry, daughter of their Majesties the late Henry, first King of Hayti and of Marie Louise, now commonly called Madame Christophe.
