and he himself deservedly esteemed in the most respected circles. Courteous and affable in his intercourse with the mercantile men, hospitable in private life, and generally generous, the departure of Mr. Troy must be felt with a feeling of regret.

ers will observe in the Chronicle a letter from Mr. Hickey, P. P. of Doonee, to which, at some future date to give the benefit of circulation this day, I will regret that time and space will not permit me to do justice to its merits as a Clerical epistle, which in its style and language so very eminently deserve.
The Rev. writer breathes freely through every word and attaches a due importance to his subject; for its value, the reader cannot possibly lose sight of its spirit. His letter first conveys a wanton refutation of the character of the Chronicle, which the author of the epistle does not adduce a particle of evidence in support of. He purports to give a full and accurate narrative of the late transaction at Bilbao, but however he may controvert our matter of fact narrative of that affair, while the effort to misrepresent only shows thoroughly the weakness, we shall not make four Reverend commentators. Mark this, reader, truth and justice. We had our intelligence from the most impartial eye witnesses of the affray, and who has the modesty to revise it, (himself most interested) was not present at all!— The one impudent assumption of his we must not be equally groundless as malignant, and we tell at an unprejudiced public is aware of, that we are instruments of any exclusive coterie, and we are now insinuation of partizanship. The proud and arrogant patronage which the Chronicle has had the day rests upon the broad basis of public opinion, and the experience of more than half a century.
For ourselves, in reply to this charge. Our argument remains yet unassailable. As to the libels on Mr. Coote, and the abuse of Colonel Wemyss, vulgar in the lowest degree, we pass them as we see. They carry with them their own antidote, and confident our readers will rise with disgust from reading them. We give Mr Hickey joy of his exhibition.

CHOLERA IN CORK.

Cholera progresses fearfully in Cork. At 3 o'clock on Wednesday last, there were 59 cases in all 28 deaths altogether, the recoveries confined to the disease rages chiefly in St. Paul's parish.— The yet attacked have been subject to habits of indolence, and the occupiers of wretched habitations.
The Faculty of Health shew a most laudable and untiring zeal in the discharge of their duties. A Roman Catholic has reported the case of one victim who was after four hours suffering. The faculty have determined, all their labours turn to prevention, and this is effected in the noble maxim—"feed the hungry, and clothe the naked." We herewith annex a return of the cases to Twelve o'clock on Wednesday which it will be seen that the Deaths in two to TWENTY-FIVE.

stances of the happy times for which they were elected, they were austere in proportion to the fervor of the Faithful.
But as piety waxed cold, we observe her accommodating her discipline to the weakness of her children, and gradually lessening their burden according to the diminution of their strength. You, dearest Brethren, a cherished portion of her obedient children, have yourselves, from time to time, experienced the same tender indulgence relative to the observance of Lent. However venerable for its Apostolic origin, sacred in the ends for which it was instituted, and at all times sanctified by your cheerful observance of its austerities in the spirit of Christian mortification by which the Elect of God are made conformable to the image of his Son, it has not always been enforced in your regard according to its rigour, but has been mitigated in seasons of great distress, by a dispensation in the law of abstinences, out of compassionate consideration for the miseries of the poor.

We have now to announce to you, Beloved Brethren, an Indult of our Holy Father Pope Gregory XVI. by a Rescript bearing date the 17th day of December, 1831, extending to Ireland a change in the law of abstinence, similar to that already granted to England and Scotland. His Holiness, having taken into consideration the peculiar circumstances of this country, and compassionating as a Father the weakness of his children, as well as the increasing poverty and the extreme destitution of many, has granted to us the power of dispensing in our respective dioceses, in the law of abstinence on Saturdays throughout the year, except those on which the precept of fasting obliges, as we might deem most expedient in the Lord.

We, therefore, having consulted with each other, and having maturely considered the circumstances of this country, and also the expediency of maintaining a uniformity of discipline in the several dioceses of Ireland, connected as they are by the closest ties of mutual intercourse, have unanimously resolved to extend to our flocks respectively the above mentioned dispensation, which we hereby grant in virtue of the power delegated to us by the Holy Apostolic See.

Instructed in Religion from your youth, you require not to be reminded of the difference that exists between Faith and Discipline. You know that Faith, unchangeable in its nature, like the Infallible Truth who revealed it, cannot be changed or altered. Like Him it is "Yesterday, and to-day, and the same for ever." "One iota of it cannot pass away." Not so Discipline. It is variable in its nature. The same authority that enacts can dispense. The same power that binds, can loose the conscience from laws however venerable for their antiquity, or the universality of their observance.— Thus we see the Apostles in the Council of Jerusalem command the converted Gentiles "to abstain from blood, and from things strangled," yet when the circumstances that gave rise to this Apostolic ordinance were changed, the Faithful were relieved from its observance.

We, at the same time exhort you, Dearly Beloved, to bear in mind, that though the law of abstinence is dispensed with on all Saturdays, that are not fasting days, the spirit of mortification is at all times the spirit of Christianity. That "they that are Christ's have crucified their flesh with the vices and concupiscences." "We are heirs indeed of God, and joint heirs with Christ, yet so if we suffer with him, that we may also be glorified with him." "Always bearing about in our body the mortification of Jesus, that the life also of Jesus may be made manifest in our bodies."

As for the rest, Beloved Brethren, we are enabled to say with the Apostle, "we are in spirit with you—rejoicing and beholding your order, and the steadfastness of your faith, which is in Christ; as therefore you have received Jesus Christ the Lord, walk ye in him, rooted and built up in him, and confirmed in the faith, as also you have learned, abounding in him in thanksgiving." "The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you, Amen."

The above is signed by 27 Prelates.

Last Sunday, during divine service, panes of glass were broken by stones from without, in the windows of St. John's Church.

Saturday evening three houses were destroyed by fire in Clonmel.

David Neale was murdered at the fair of Cappamore, yesterday.

James Cormick, who was hanged at Clonmel gaol on Saturday for the murder of James Short, at Templemore, declared his innocence to the last moment on the scaffold.

The Judges have given strict orders against the admission to the Four Courts of any persons in filthy or unclean habits, so great is the alarm spread by Cholera Morbus.

A notice was posted on Sunday last on Mr. Hunt's gate at Cappagh, County Tipperary, warning him on pain of death and destruction not to let potato ground as he tyrannically intended.

All the Roman Catholic Chapels in this City were lighted up with great splendour on Thursday last, and the Altars were superbly decorated. As usual, immense crowds of spectators were to visit them.

John Holland, Esq. of this City, was sworn an Attorney of the Court of King's Bench on Thursday.

At the Petty Sessions this day a man of the name of Nihil was committed of assaulting a soldier of the 27th Regiment and taking his bayonet. The Magistrates sentenced him the full penalty of £5, or two months hard labour at the tread-mill.—The bayonet was restored.

A beautiful Durham heifer, four years old, bred and fed by Thomas Brereton, Esq. of Rathurles, county Tipperary, was exhibited this week in Mr. James Jackson's stall, in Denmark-street Market. Perhaps a more perfect beast was never before seen in this City, and as the breeder is entitled to much credit for introducing such cattle into this country, so is Mr. Jackson for his spirited exertions in gratifying the public with such superior meat; indeed public approbation was fully marked, for before the beast was sufficiently de-that Dr. Brodie, with a philosophical zeal worthy of his profession, went to Cork yesterday in order to attend the Cholera Hospitals—witness the progress of the Disease—acquire a minute knowledge of the treatment of the malady, and obtain all the information which can be furnished by the Faculty of Cork relative to the pestilence. Disinterested conduct like this on the part of Mr. B. cannot be too highly commended. He has been followed by Surgeon Peppard for the like laudable purpose.

Last night, a thatched house was maliciously burned at Ardane, in this County, the property of Mr. James O'Brien, of Kildimo; the Herdsman escaped the flames with great difficulty, but eight fat Lambs were consumed. The Police from Pallas Kenry, proceeded to the spot on the appearance of the fire, and rendered all assistance in their power.

Mr. Russell, Engineer, deputed by the Board of Works, accompanied by Captain G. H. Fitz-Gerald, Treasurer of the City, inspected yesterday the Tipperary and Clare roads in the Liberties, which are forthwith to be perfectly repaired by an advance of money from Government.

M. Barrington, Esq. Crown Solicitor, continued the investigation into the Bilboa tythe affair at Cappamore village last Thursday, when above a dozen witnesses were examined on the part of the Rev. Mr. Hickey, who was present.

A further sum of £20,000 has been granted by Government to complete the Wellesley Bridge in this City.

The Rev. John Clarke, of this City, is appointed domestic Chaplain to Dr. Ryan the Roman Catholic Bishop.

The City High Sheriff yesterday received a respite for Thaddeus Benson, a prisoner under sentence of execution for coining.

One of the great cavalcade of transport convicts that left this on Tuesday morning for Cork, escaped same evening from the Bridewell of Bruff, and has not since been heard of. His name is Michael Quin, a Galway convict, under sentence of transportation for life. The Ennis convicts sent to Cork were—John Reidy, Rickard Kennedy James, and Michael M'Mahon, for the Police murder; George Meade, for the murder of Serjeant Robinson, 5th Foot; Timothy Killeen, Thomas Crawford, and Denis Foran, for Whiteboyism, to be all transported for life.

Alderman Watson, Treasurer of the House of Industry, thankfully acknowledges the receipt of a large load of straw for the poor in that charity, sent in from Lord Clare's Estate, through Mr. John Abraham.—Also, ten shillings from Mrs.
M'Mahon, of Mungret-street, towards a dinner to the inmates of the House of Industry on Easter Sunday.
