of a letter received at our Office yesterday—Cholera is daily increasing, and the public mind is in the latest state of excitement and alarm. It is extraordinary to see mounted Police accompany sufferers to the hospital to protect them from being forced out of the vehicle by the orders, who believe the bodies of all Cholera patients are given for dissection."

Friday Evening, half-past Six.

Gentlemen were taken ill in the Hall of the Law on the day of Cholera, and were conveyed home—170 are dead to-day, tho' 90 only are officially reported—City office and King's Inns are closed. Dr. Ireland, and many of the Doctors have sent their families to Wales or the County Kerry. Dr. Marsh recommends following when the first symptoms appear, and medical relief can arrive, viz.:—a large teaspoon of mustard to be dissolved in a pint of lukewarm water, dissolved to be drunk or rather taken in mouth—the stomach turns, and when discharged to take a stor Oil, and to keep rubbing the stomach, and other parts that may be affected with the mustard oment the first symptoms appear."

CHOLERA IN CORK.

Epidemic still confines its inflictions to those whom it and its sad train of concomitant miseries have pre-receive its influence. Wherever foul air, filth, insufficient food, or the excessive use of ardent spirits united to fix their wasting influence, there, the Cholera exerts its mortal effects—and as yet with much impunity. The measures which have been so well devised, and most extensively employed, for counteracting the progress of Cholera, and of considerable success, in diminishing the extension of the disease, and in checking its tendency to become fatal among the poor. The hospitals are visited confidently by numbers of humane persons, and the instance of any one having taken the disease from the fact it is almost morally certain that it is not of a letter from Cork, dated Thursday night, "I hasten to give you a sketch, descriptive of the malady to-day. You will perceive that our deaths are less by six, and our deaths by one, than they were yesterday. This has raised some drooping spirits; but we are apprehensive that it will be of short continuance, and even o'clock to-day the disorder broke out with violence near some slaughter-houses in the rear of the hospital, and Bailey's-lane, where it had not appeared before. In the course of an hour or two it furnished patients to the Hospitals. Oh! 'tis a most treacherous and distemper! Monday last being Easter Monday, and a Fair day at Ballinakille, Queen's County, a large concourse of people assembled in that town, and about 5 o'clock in the afternoon the Whitefeet commenced rioting, when Lieut. Binney, a Magistrate for the County, and a party of Police succeeded in securing two of the ringleaders, one of whom on his way to the police barracks attempted to rescue himself, when a general riot ensued, and had it not been for the very prompt attendance of the detachment of the 74th Regiment stationed at that post, the most serious consequences must have followed to the police, two of whom were severely hurt, and Lieut. Binney received a severe blow on the head from a stick—the military behaved with much coolness and forbearance, and we are happy to add no lives were lost—The Whitefeet on this occasion shewed the greatest determination to resist the civil authority, and as was before mentioned had it not been for the Military the Police would in all probability have suffered the fate of their companions at Carrickshock.—Six Whitefeet were apprehended in the riot.

The Maryboro' Paper of this morning has a series of fresh outrages in the Queen's County, Kilkenny, and Carlow.—Mr. Francis Kellett's house attacked by Whiteboys in search of fire-arms, and his nephew severely wounded.—Peter Dowling, a farmer, so badly wounded that his life is despaired of in the County Infirmary.
