letter of the Rev. Thomas Westropp, jun. came too this day; but it shall appear in our next. Resolutions of the Parishioners of St. Mary appear page.

To the Editor of the Limerick Chronicle. Newcastle, August 6, 1832. —Having seen in your Paper of Wednesday last, a of "a sumptuous public dinner" stated to have been in this town on the 23d ultimo, to the Very Rev. Mr. by a very numerous and respectable party, composed own parishioners, as well as the Catholic Clergy and y of the neighbouring parishes, I think it necessary ble you with a few observations on that subject.

er the most extraordinary exertions had been used to re subscribers to this dinner, at five shillings a-head, numerous party" consisted of 23 persons, of whom one-half were Clergymen, and of whom six only were ev. Gentleman's "own parishioners," not one of which as selected to fill the office either of Chairman or Vice-ident.

an, of course, have no objection to any number of per-entertaining Mr. Coll, if they please, but I totally deny atement of the Catholics of Newcastle having done so, I shall leave to the public to estimate the popularity of Coll in this town, when in this respectable parish six ms only could be procured to bear testimony to the teem" he is held in by their attendance at this "sump- s five-shilling entertainment."

what proportion the six parishioners contributed to the total of the rapturous cheering, does not appear from report, but as there were nine speakers, and a dozen ches upon the occasion; and as only one parishioner e, and he but once, it is clear that the parish of New- e, furnished only one-ninth of the orators, and one-twelfth he eloquence.

is rather curious that the only parishioner who ever in- s the esteemed Mr. Coll, to a private dinner, was absent a this public one; and the Keeper of the only Hotel in Town (who is a Catholic) refused to furnish this "very ptuous dinner," and it was accordingly entered by one of friends of the "esteemed," and served up in the house of Murphy, the dyer, in Bridge-lane. I should not have noticed this report, but that I feel I uld be wanting in my duty to the people of Newcastle, ose sentiments I express, if I suffered this libel upon their racter and independence to go forth, without the most dit contradiction.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

TIPPERARY ENDOWED SCHOOL.
THE business of the School will be resumed on Monday the 23d Instant.

An early attendance of the Pupils is particularly requested, as Professor Spalding has been engaged to give lectures on Elocution, System of Attitude and Gesture, &c., early in August, the great advantages of which have been fully developed at the examinations in June, and highly appreciated by a crowded audience, composed of the rank and fashion of the surrounding neighbourhood.

The house is beautifully situated, and decidedly one of the finest establishments in Ireland, thirteen thousand pounds having been expended on it about twelve or thirteen years ago. It is quite detached from the town, and stands aloof from every species of nuisance, and the play-grounds are very extensive and dry.
No expence has been spared in procuring Assistants of the highest character in every department: there is little or no corporal punishment, except in cases of absolute necessity. The Pupils are treated like gentlemen, and trained up with gentlemanly feelings, and nothing omitted that may tend to increase their comfort.

The Abbot, Tipperary, July 20, 1832.
