DEATHS.

Saturday, at his House in the Crescent, to the deep and sincere regret of an affectionate family, and numerous friends, whom his singleness of heart, integrity of life and affable manners, had long secured, Nicholas Mahon, Esq. Alderman of this City, a gentleman of the most amiable and endearing character in private society; while in the discharge of his official duties in public life as Sheriff in 1796, and Mayor of Limerick in 1826, few individuals filled those high and responsible situations so much to the satisfaction of his fellow citizens.

At Connor Glebe, Ballymena, on the 11th instant, in the prime of life, the beloved wife of the Rev. Richard Jones Hobson, and daughter of Bolton Waller, of Shannon-Grove, in this County, Esq. In every relative situation of life, whether as a wife, a mother, or a friend, this truly amiable and exemplary young woman shone conspicuous, holding out an example worthy of imitation by all. As through her life the Gospel of Christ was her rule and guide, so at the last sad and awful hour he did not forsake. She died the death of the Righteous. Oh! may our last end be like her's!
