STIAN OFFERING—A friend has just shewed us in sent to him by a young lady the avails of to be applied in aid of the mission to Greece, and mitted us to make the following extract from the which it was conveyed:—"The enclosed chain was from a father (now deceased) to his daughter, and her attachment to it on that account that could it nted from earth to heaven with her soul it would ed for ever as a token of affection; but as she the tie of which this is but an emblem will again and as she feels the need of no other ornament but meek and quiet spirit," she cheerfully resigns it rd's treasury, and begs that the avails of it may d in Testaments for the use of the destitute in he writer of this feels that she would be unworthy e of Christian did she withhold (from mere ves) anything which she possesses which might to the salvation of an immortal soul." We exrove from the Christian Journal, and we would e cannot sufficiently admire the character which lady has made in preferring the ornament of "a quiet spirit" to the tinsel taudry trappings which vain and unrighteous even in our streets.
