DEATHS.

At Madras, of cholera, Richard Monsell, Esq. Lieuten- ant and Adjutant, 2d Native Veteran Battalion, and son of the late Peter Monsell, Esq. of this City—a gentleman of the nicest principles of honor, whose demise is sincerely regretted by his brother Officers.

At Maryville, in this County, Barbara, wife of Hugh Finch, Esq. The LORD has been some time preparing this tried saint, by His grace to be a partaker of His glory.— Though naturally of a weak frame, yet strong in the Lord, she evinced the greatest fortitude in the trying hour, and left a most attached husband and infant family not only without a murmur, but rejoicing at the glory that awaited her. She was some days aware of her approaching dissolution, and those that witnessed it were greatly edified by her spiritual advice. She exerted all her powers to impart the comfort with which she was supported, from her sole dependance on the all-obtaining blood of Jesus, to every one around her, and almost her last words were, "I know 'There remaineth a rest to the people of GOD.'" The consolations of vital religion were eminently conspicuous in this dying believer entering into rest in the bloom of youth: and tho' her family and friends severely lament her loss here, yet they rejoice to know that the lips, which assured them repeatedly that "The Lord redeemeth the souls of his saints, and none that trust in Him shall be desolate," passed their first Sabbath singing the praises of God and the Lamb.

A KIND AND BENEVOLENT LANDLORD.

To the Editor of the Limerick Chronicle.

SIR—WE, the Tenantry of Upper and Lower BALLY- DONOHUE, between Glin and Turbett, will feel grateful in allowing us to state through your respectable Journal as unprecedented a case of noble and benevolent generosity as ever emanated from the human heart. On the 17th December last, those Lands, the Estate of Thomas FitzGerald, Esq. Barrister-at-Law, came into his possession by the demise of the Rev. John Parker, Clk. which we held for forty years and upwards under the Rev. Messrs. Ashe and Martin as their undertenants. Our situation on the occasion may be better imagined than described. Consider thirty-two families, composing about two hundred souls, without a house or home, as may well be thought if compared with the great advance that would take place by a second letting. What was our anxiety, our doubts, and our fears, to behold him arrive amongst us in whose hands Providence had placed the power of making us happy and comfortable or miserable outcasts. Mark the result of our first interview in this momentous affair, and the words of our noble Patron— "Make yourselves happy, I am come amongst you to re- instate each and every of you in your present holdings, and much more, to see that your different dwellings have a
