sisted upon seeing, and found it to enclose three chamber candlesticks, which the servants identified as the Bishop's property. A further examination now took place before all the servants in the kitchen, and several pounds of mould candles, some china plates, a piece of calico, a plated coffee pot, were taken out of the trunk, and from his pocket a silver spoon, all belonging to his Lordship. Finally, the servant's vest was discovered, the original cause of suspicion. The offender was dismissed with disgrace, and taken to prison, from which however he was yesterday liberated through a mistaken feeling of lenity, and is gone to Dublin.

Thomas O'Brien, farmer, of Tubbermalough, in this county, returning from market in this City a few evenings since, fell or was thrown on the road from his car, and died on Thursday morning of the injuries in the County Infirmary. His head presented a deep lacerated wound.—Verdict, accidental death.

James Fallahey, labourer in Messrs. Roy's brewery, Wednesday evening, fell from a platform in the concerns about 20 feet to the pavement, and was immediately conveyed to the Infirmary in a dying state, where he expired shortly after. The Mayor held an inquest upon his body, when it appeared the deceased was irregular from liquor at the time the accident occurred, and no person convenient to him at the moment he fell. Verdict accordingly.

Thursday night some miscreants plundered an out-office of Mathew O'Brien, of Newcastle, Esq. near this city, of several articles of wearing apparel, &c.

On Saturday night an armed party of those misguided miscreants who are beginning to infest the west of the county Clare, attacked the houses of Mathew O'Keefe, John Carmody, Michael Quilty, John Murphy, Joseph Seals, and others, on the townlands of Tullycrine, and Derryrosane and beat the inmates, broke their furniture, and threatening them with death on their next visit, if they did not leave the county in eight days : they decamped firing shots. Next morning Constables Huddy and Meade proceeded to the above-named townlands to make a strict enquiry into the movements of Lady Clare on the previous night, and on Sunday night they succeeded in arresting Mathew Dillon, charged as being a leader in the above outrage. Dillon is committed to Ennis gaol by Poole Hickman, Esq. and the Rev. James Martin.

Sunday night, some ruffians broke the legs of several sheep in the borony of Ida, county Kilkenny, the property of a man named Hunt. The Police are on the alert to discover the perpetrators.

An infant which lay asleep in a cradle, in a cabin near Athlone last Monday, was devoured by a pig!

The Lord Lieutenant has offered £100 reward for the murderers of Sub-Constable Ormsby, near Eyrecourt, and £50 for the armed party that entered the dairyhouse of Mrs.
Scully near Tipperary, and nearly killed the dairyman, and £50 for the armed party that robbed three farm-houses in the parish of Killineer, Galway, of fire-arms.

Twenty-three convicts were on Wednesday sent off from Tralee gaol to the convict hulk at the Cove of Cork, under
