connected with their Trade.

Under circumstances so favourable, W. & T. scarcely intimate, that they can supply the way Country, on at least as moderate terms, as any R. House in the Trade. Upon all occasions, they will be ready to meet the views of their Customers, as far as possible, and to offer their Goods at as Low Prices as the Markets, and the peculiar nature and expenses of the Trade will permit.

To enable them to transact their Business in a more convenient and satisfactory manner to themselves and the Public, they have once more determined to confine their Trade to Cash Sales, and in consequence, respectfully decline credits. The advantage of the Cash system, both to the Purchaser and Seller, is so obvious to require the slightest comment.

Wholesale Purchasers, and the Public generally, will be supplied with
