

peculiar pleasure in following Mr. O'Grady, and why should I not? He and I have been fellow-labourers in the same vineyard, and together we have helped to lay the axe to the root of every corruption and abuse. Let us not be disheartened at the absence of the few who have severed themselves from the people.

The vote of thanks to the High Sheriff was then passed, which he acknowledged, and the meeting separated with cheers for O'Connell, Father Maguire, and Dean M'Namara.

The Distillers, Brewers, and Malsters of this City, forwarded, through Thomas Wallnutt, Esq. a memorial to the Treasury against Mr. More O'Ferrall's malt bill, as it would place the licensed traders entirely at the mercy of the revenue officers, beside the restrictions and penalties were excessive. Mr. Wm. Roche, M.P. presented the memorial, and enforced its prayer by letter and in person, with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who yielded so far to the remonstrance of the Irish Members, as to say he would give it up if they persevere in their opposition.

Patrick Tuohy of Broadford, a young man, died at the City Infirmary on Monday, of fracture on the head, caused by the blow of a stone or brickbat, near Thomond-bridge ferry, a few nights previous, and for which cowardly outrage a man of the name of Skehane is suspected, having had some quarrel with deceased an hour or two before, and threatened revenge. Aldermen Mahony and Watson held an inquest on his remains. Verdict of wilful murder against a person or persons unknown.

A fine little boy, named George Wheeler, was nearly crushed to death yesterday in William-street, under the wheel of a car, heavily laden, which passed over his body. The driver is in custody.

Michael O'Neill, a western boatman, dropped suddenly dead on Honan's-quay yesterday morning, without any previous sign of illness. Aldermen Mahony and Watson held an inquest on the body. Verdict—died by the visitation of God.
