THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17.

Our columns are so crowded with a report of the speeches at the Dinner, on Thursday night, to Mr. O'Connell, that we can only conclude by briefly stating his departure, yesterday, for Ennis, where he dined with his relative, Mr. Charles O'Connell, Attorney, and this morning proceeded to Kilcornan, Co. Galway, the seat of S. H. Redington, Esq. M. P., for Dundalk. To-morrow, he enters Galway, and remains with Dr. Browne, the Roman Catholic Bishop, until Monday, when he dines in public with his friends, and then finishes his tour of provincial feasting and agitating, by a detour upon Dublin.

One of the most respectable and numerous meetings assembled in Cork for many years, took place on Thursday, to establish a Provincial College for Munster in that city, Lord Listowel presided, and Mr. Wyse, M.P. made a splendid speech in illustration of the grand national object for which the meeting was convened. Eventually an address to the Queen, and a petition to Parliament were agreed on.

John Carroll, Esq. late of the National Bank, Brunswick-street, was, on Thursday, elected by the Commissioners. Collector of Wellesley Bridge dues, in place of James Lyons, Esq. resigned. The appointment has given general satisfaction, for a more eligible selection could not be made.

Wednesday, the Mayor held an inquest upon the body of Thomas Lynch, who died in hospital that morning of compound fracture in the head, inflicted by James Murray, of St. Michael's parish night watch, who struck him with his pole or staff, the end of which is cased with iron. Verdict of wilful murder against the watchman. We condemned the use of these deadly weapons in such hands before now, but with no success in the proper quarter. The law will eventually implicate as accessories in a secondary degree those who continue to permit such weapons.

We have received a communication, the correctness of which is very much doubted, that Maurice O'Connell, Esq. is about to abdicate the representation of Tralee, and that his successor is already named in the person of Mr. Pierce Mahony, the Ex-Member for Kinsale.

Lord Fitzgerald has arrived at Cheltenham.

The Governorship of the Scilly Islands is vacant by the death of Major-General Smyth.

Eighty Priests were at the Thurles dinner to Mr. O'Connell.

Mr. Jones, the Stipendiary Magistrate, has arrived in Galway, and assisted at the Petty Sessions therein on Tuesday.
