DEATHS.
Last night, at his seat, Attyflin, in this County, John Westrop, Esq. aged 77. He was High Sheriff of the County in the year 1798. In the positions of husband, father, friend, and landlord, few men ever acquired a higher or juster celebrity. His deep sense of religion enabled him to bear a painful illness with submission and fortitude, and to meet his end with the firmness of a true Christian. His remains will be interred at the family vault of Tulla, county of Clare.
This afternoon, at his house, Tontine Buildings, the Rev.
Windham Magrath Fitzgerald, Treasurer of the Diocese of Ar-dara—a gentleman sincerely and justly lamented.
On Saturday, at Monkstown, near Dublin, Mrs. Margaret O'Brien. The affliction caused by her death, though intense and lasting, is an insufficient requital of the many virtues which distinguished this lamented lady. Her instinctive and tender love—her pervading affections and untiring friendship, have secured to her memory a permanent regret. Her intelligence, energy, and acuteness, aiding those qualities of the heart, were conducive in promoting the prosperity of many. The editing termination of her life, under protracted and painful illness, affords the surest, but only, consolation to those, whose affliction is anguish.
On the 23rd inst. Eliza, second daughter of the Rev. Wm. Thomas, aged near 10 years, in a most happy state of mind, anxiously desiring to be with her Jesus.
E. D. D'Arcy, Esq. aged 78 years.
At Summerhill, county Tipperary, James Shortt, Esq. sen. formerly of Dublin.
Sunday morning, in Collooney-street, Mrs. Switzer, sen. She sustained the different relations of wife, parent and friend, in that manner that characterised a truly benevolent affectionate heart.
She bore a lingering illness in full resignation to the will of her Redeemer.
At Kilmaistulla, on Sunday last, Mary, relict of Nathaniel Barton, Esq. at the advanced age of 95.
On Sunday morning, at Killeacon, Mr. Andrew M'Namara, aged 20 years, much regretted by his friends.
Thursday last, at Ballymean, near Dingle, aged upwards of eighty years, sixty of which long period of time he officiated as Curate of Dingle, the Rev. John Goodman, Rector of Tiverton, Gloucestershire.
Mary, relict of the late Thomas Hare, Esq. of Cork.
At Clonaferry, near Milltown, Kerry, aged sixty years, Thomas Myles, Esq. a gentleman, who, during his career through life, maintained a character distinguished for integrity, and friendliness of disposition.
Mary Anne Power, wife of Mr. James Power, of Waterford.
Mr. James Abernethy, High Constable of Waterford.
John, only son of the late James B. Foot, of Mount Prospect, near Cork.
At Borrisokane, Ellen, the wife of Paris Anderson, Esq.
At Lismore, John Clark, Esq. formerly of Eccles-street, Dublin, aged 78.
At Malahow, county of Dublin, the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Baker, in his 85th year, William Cosgrove, Esq. for many years one of the oldest and most respectable Solicitors in Dublin.
In Prussia-street, Emanuel Goodrich Darcy, Esq. aged 87.
Mrs. James Mulligan, of Wintetavern-street.
On the 23rd inst. at Cosgrove, Northamptonshire, John Christopher Mansel, Esq. late Major in the 3d Dragoon Guards.
At Plymouth, Commander Henry Joseph Puget, third son of the late Rear-Admiral Peter Puget, C. B.
At Hastings, Sir John Dunlop, Bart., of Dunlop, M. P. for the county of Ayr.
At Nottingham, Anthony Brabazon, Esq. formerly Excise Collector at Drogheda.
At Richmond, Mrs. Wrigley Roberts, widow of the late James Wrigley Roberts.
At Kensington, Catherine, only daughter of the late Rev. C. G. F.
Leicester, of Hatfield Broad Oak, Essex, aged 20.
At the Vicarage, Middleton, Lynn, Ellen Lavinia, youngest surviving daughter of the Very Rev. the Dean of Middleham, and Mrs. Peter Wood.
Mr. C. Forster, many years of the Admiralty, Somerset House.
In Grosvenor-street, London, Martha, wife of Lieut.-Colonel Sir Henry Wyatt.
At Cheltenham, Lady Elizabeth Fitzroy, relict of the late General the Hon. W. Fitzroy.
At Southampton, Christian, wife of Lieutenant-Col. Usher, late of the 62d Regiment.
At Stranraer, Mrs. Agnew, wife of Mr. J. Agnew, ship master.
Mr. George Christie, agent, Glasgow.
Of hydrophobia, Mr. Isaac Phelps, Inspector of the night police at Nottingham.
At Preston, aged 79, James Mackie, Esq. M. D.
On the 10th ult. at Pisa, Charles C. youngest son of the Rev.
Christopher D. Tutbill, Webbville, Cork.
