THE MILITIA—Much has been said about the Militia Staff and arrangements; the following is in agitation at the War-office.—To re-model the Militia altogether, to make them useful, and in case of emergency efficient. A draft annually of one-fifth in each county to be trained by the Adjutant, the duties of Paymaster and Quartermaster to be performed by the same officer, and the Surgeon to perform his official duties, all to be retained at a reduced rate of pay. Men allowed to volunteer into the line for a limited period; as volunteering takes place the numbers to be filled up. In proportion to the number joining the line an officer will have a commission given him as an Ensign for every 50 men.
