Friday evening some persons entered the quarters of Lieut. Stewart, 7th Royal Fusiliers at Cork, and took his gold watch and appendages, which cost 65 guineas a few months ago in London; likewise all the portable articles in the place.

Lieut. S. Pepper Joyce, 50th, has got two months' leave from Chatham. The augmentation of this Regt. will not take place before six months, when they shall have sailed for India from Australia.
Lord Killeen, who entered the Army only four months since, is now senior Cornet of the 8th Hussars.
Mr. A. Pringle is appointed Barrack Master at Tobago, in place of Major Agnew.

The 50th will replace the 16th Regt. at Calcutta, in the spring of next year.
Capt. Riley, 24th, is about to retire upon half-pay.
Lieut. Glubb, 34th, is appointed to the Recruiting service at Chester.
Lieut. Aylmer, 89th, replaces Lieut. Rayson, 83d, at Kendal; Lieut. Layard, 39th, succeeds Lt. De Wend, 44th, at Stamford, in the Recruiting service.
The 51st will leave Van Dieman's Land for India in three years, to expedite the relief of Regiments on that establishment.
Lieut. Horsely, and a party of the 96th, left Manchester, on Thursday, to embark at Chatham, for Botany Bay. Captain Jones and Ensign Rooney are on leave.
Prince George of Cambridge, appointed to a Supernumerary Lieutenant-Colonelcy in the 12th, or Royal Lancers, is to take rank between Lieut.-Col. Stawell and Major Barton. Two rooms over the officers' mess-room have been fitted up for his Royal Highness, who is to join the regiment on Saturday next. Should the brevet rank of Major-General be conferred on Lieut.-Col. Stawell at the Royal marriage, the command of this fine regiment will at once devolve upon the Prince.
Admiral Sir Robert Otway's son, Ensign Otway, has joined the 51st Light Infantry Depot, at Chatham.

Capt. Gleeson, formerly of the 90th Regt., and latterly of the Carlow Constabulary, has started a Saturday newspaper at Castlebar, designated the Mayo Mercury.
Mr. William Fitzgibbon, of Cork, states that the report current in that city for the last month, of the Lady of a Military Officer having been accused of robbing at his warehouse, is false. The circumstance was noticed in the Chronicle a week since, but we forbore mentioning any name whatever. The report is admitted to have been current three weeks in Cork before it appeared in print.
Sir Thomas Esmonde, High Sheriff of Wexford, subscribes £5 a year to the Society for propagating the Roman Catholic Faith in Ireland.
Richard Chearnley, of Saltarbridge, Esq. is appointed High Sheriff for the County Waterford.
The answer of the Poor Law Commissioners has been received to the Memorial from the Guardians of this Union, which we announced last month, praying a division of the electoral districts into City and Rural districts, for the purpose of equalising the taxation. The Board say they possess the power to alter electoral divisions of an Union; but in the present instance they do not consider the rate-payers are desirous of a separation or division. On Wednesday, the Guardians passed the following resolution on this subject:—
RESOLVED—That we have considered the reply of the Poor Law Commissioners to the late representation from the Board of Guardians, and while ready to admit the many difficulties attendant on the proposed consideration of the electoral divisions in this union, we remain deeply impressed with the excessive injustice to the city and liberties of Limerick of the present arrangement of the electoral divisions. As it was the declared object of the Poor Law Commissioners in the original arrangement of these divisions, to equalise the taxation as much as possible; and the Board of Guardians feel that they have a strong claim on their interference when such object is not likely to be in any sense attained, and if it be not considered advisable on the part of the Commissioners to consolidate the electoral divisions, the Board of Guardians are anxious to ascertain whether they will be supported by the Commissioners in the only remedy which suggests itself, a petition to parliament for an alteration of the word "resident," to "born," occurring twice in the 44th clause of the Poor Law Act, relating to the relief of the poor in their respective electoral divisions.
There are 2,570 houses in St. John's parish, and 5,000 in St. Michael's parish, for valuation and assessment in the Limerick Poor Law Union.
Mr. Hawley, Assistant Commissioner, will explain the nature and operations of the Poor Law Act in Listowel, on the 24th inst.
The Poor Rate has been declared at five pence in the pound for the Cork Union, and is collectable by law in six days, for the half-year ending the 29th of September next.

extreme sentence of the law into effect than there is at this moment, that the men have been reprieved, and their sentence commuted to transportation. On Monday morning these misguided men were torn away, without being permitted the consolation of a parting interview with their families, and are now on board the convict hulks at Portsmouth.
The marriage of her Majesty and Prince Albert is to be solemnized on Monday next, and upon a scale of magnificence greater than ever characterized the nuptials of any of the Queen's predecessors. The annuity having been cut down to £30,000, the Conservatives had no further opposition to offer, and hence we find the bill running through all its stages last night, in a couple of minutes read, altered and passed, and hurried up to the Lords, where it will be made law this evening, preparatory to the arrival of the Prince on Friday next. I cannot vouch for what is whispered at Crockford's, and in the Clubs at St. James's, that this illustrious and truly fortunate Prince is foad of "play." Should this be so, and that he is prone to indulge it, there will be an open field and no lack of adepts at the gaming table.
Stockdale is panting for an opportunity to bring another action against the Sergeant at Arms for false imprisonment—the Sheriffs mean to act in like manner, so that by and by we shall be mixed in privilege with a vengeance. Sir W. Follet came out on it on Monday night and he clearly showed that the only alternative left was, the introduction of a short bill to define the privileges of the Commons, and to set the matter at rest in future. There is no sympathy to be had from the Lords, who do not seem to agree with the lofty tone assumed by the Commons.
The Irish Municipal Bill was brought in on Monday night, and read a first time, and ordered to be printed before the second reading on to-morrow week. Opinion is divided as to its enactments, but it is believed to be what Lord Lyndhurst made it at the close of the last session, when abandoned by Ministers, from an inability to carry it through at the time. I have scarcely a doubt of its passing both houses this year, and I am fortified in my opinion from the impression made by the differences existing in the Dublin Corporation, and the violence of certain members towards the learned Recorder, Mr. Shaw, who has exerted himself with more laudable zeal for the rights, franchises, and immunities of the freemen, than other Irish members, and who never abandoned the cause until he found that more would not be conceded by his own friends, and that of two evils he had only to choose the least. Notwithstanding the unmerited—in many instances, wanton insults offered to him, he will be found exerting his talents to the last moment in defence of vested rights, and to make the very best of what is termed "a bad bargain." As soon as the bill is out of the printer's hands you shall have a copy.
I learn that Sir William Brabazon, member for Mayo, has determined to act an independent part in future, and no longer to be classed with the tail. He has it seems taken his text from "John of Tuam," and treats Mr. O'Connell's threats with perfect indifference. You will see and hear more of this.
It cannot escape notice, that in the late debate, whilst Ministers eagerly took advantage of the alleged indiscretion of Colonel Thomas, when Mr. Bradshaw alluded to her Majesty, they altogether overlooked the gross affront to the Royal Family, in promoting Mr. Shiel to the office of Privy Councillor, who had notoriously exulted in the anticipated death of his Royal Highness the Duke of York, and given as a toast, at a public dinner, with a brutal levity, "success to Fox-Glove," alluding to the deadly effects of that medicine upon debilitated constitutions.
Mr. O'Connell boasted in the debate that he refused the office of Chief Baron of the Exchequer in Ireland, with a salary of £5000 a-year, and tauntingly asked the Conservative Benches would they have done the same; but it is surprising there was no reply unless a contemptuous silence, as no individual alive but Mr. O'Connell gets £14,000 a year for acting the Patriot—a yearly tribute from the poorest people in the world, whose hired champion he is. If he accepted the Office of Chief Baron, he would be a loser of £9000 per annum.
I feel astonished after all the talent displayed by the Conservative Members how it escaped their observation, that the Government had connived at a breach of the Emancipation Act of 1829, by the Right Rev. Dr. M'Hale, who notoriously assumes the style and title of the Archbishop of Tuam. The Act inflicts a penalty of £100 for every such offence. If the Ministry were really sincere in impartially adhering to its provisions, they would have firmly grappled with the Doctor and vindicated the law; but I rather apprehend they will now gladly shelter themselves under the plea of there being at present, unhappily, no such dignitary in the Established Church, as Archbishop of Tuam.
I am quite surprised to find that no orders have been given to the army in Ireland to wear mourning (as directed,) for the late King's sister.

Since the suspension of our trade with China, the price of Tea in this city has advanced 1s. to 1s. 6d. per pound.
In Beresford v. Farran, this week all the Judges excepting Baron Foster, decided that judgment entered upon a bond written 20 years, can be made available for 20 more.
Mr. Shea, collecting clerk to Mr. Finn, of Dublin, Brewer, was murdered near Bray, and robbed of £200.
The Ballycastle collieries have been let, under an order of Chancery, to John Salmon, Esq. secretary to the Imperial Slate Company of London.

The Lord Lieutenant has offered £50 reward for discovery of the armed party that robbed John Murphy, of Kiltely, farmer, of £140, as announced in our last.
Mr. Corballis, the newly elected Member for Meath, was proposed at the hustings of Trim, by Mr. Hussey, seconded by Mr. Boylan, and returned without opposition. Mr. Corballis gave £400 for the poor of the County.
The barn and haggard of Lord Arden, at Duhalloo, county Cork, was maliciously burned to the ground a few nights past, with many farming utensils. Reward for the incendiaries, £100.

PETTY SESSIONS—YESTERDAY.
Presiding Magistrates, the Right Worshipful the Mayor, Alderman D.F.G. Mahony, Alderman Watson, Alderman Fitzgerald, M. Gavin, Samuel Dickson, Wm. Howly, and R. Kane, Esqrs.
Michael Kennedy charged with having stolen timber in his possession, was discharged, with a caution how he conducted himself as the Police would have a look after him; Catherine Shine was ordered to the House of Industry for two months, for breaking the windows of the Police guard-house at Baal's Bridge; informations were ordered against James Stewart, for offensive and threatening language towards Mr. Thomas Walsh, silver-smith; Thomas Kinnivane was fined 5s. for assaulting James Kinnivane; ten factory apprentices to Mr. Lloyd, charged with absenting themselves from his business, sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment unless they return to work.
Mr. R. W. Gason applied to the Bench to direct the Police to prevent the passage to the Hay market being interrupted by the carmen of the City, who take up their stand at the lower end of Ellen-street, thereby deterring countrymen from bringing their hay and straw to market. The Magistrates replied that directions to that effect would be given, and some other piece should be got for carriers to take up a position.
Mary Nolan was sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment for leaving the service of Thomas Darcy Evans, Esq. without notice, and entering that of another person; James Donnelly, fined 10s. for assault and abusive language to Cornelius Hogan; Daniel Flanagan was fined 5s. for keeping a dog without a log, which had bitten a child in the face—the animal to be destroyed; George Leo, charged with keeping heaps of manure on the Ballinacurra road was fined £1, it appearing that he not only sanctioned the nuisance, but actually let part of the public road to others, for the purpose of depositing same; two men fined 5s. each, for collecting nuisance in the same quarter.
The case of Mr. P. H. Holland v. Mary M'Namara and Margaret Dooly, for perjury, was dismissed, Mr. Holland not appearing.
The LIMERICK CHRONICLE has been assailed by a cotemporary in Cork for the publication of three articles of a recent date, and the attack is made in terms so grossly offensive and scurrilous, as would put our Southern adversary altogether beneath the notice of any respectable organ of the periodical Press. A contemptuous and indignant silence should alone be observed towards a print so utterly ignorant or reckless of the conventional usages of civilized life, but as it may happen that some of our readers see this Paper, we shall give a brief explanation, out of courtesy to them. There are few Journals in Ireland receive so many different communications for publicity as the LIMERICK CHRONICLE, from town and country, especially by letter—and to arrange these various materials for the Press, admitting or rejecting, often without time for reference in some, requires no little ingenuity and discretion. Many of our cotemporaries complain sadly of the imposition they are subject to in this manner, by false intelligence or distorted facts. Of course, we must also suffer occasionally in the multiplicity of correspondence, though we appeal to our readers in both countries, if the CHRONICLE be not happy in avoiding such complaints. Our accuser charges us with stating that, the Rev. Mr. Mathew is not allowed to travel by the mail-coaches, because a crowd happened to stop the coach, and compelled him to descend. We had the circumstance from a correspondent shortly after the occurrence, who is himself an admirer of the Rev. Gentleman; and we believe no person would suspect the CHRONICLE of being an inattentive observer of that glorious missionary, whose object is to reform, and ameliorate the habits of the Irish people. The second letter communicated the intelligence of Mr. Heard, High Sheriff of Cork, intending to offer himself a candidate for the borough of Kinsale, which the same organ rudely contradicts, because the information was disagreeable in that quarter, though the gentleman and his immediate friends are silent on the subject for prudential reasons. The third and last matter of accusation is that we published "a malignant falsehood" of Mr. Fitzgibbon, of Cork, trader. We deny the charge, though we insist the report of a shopkeeper in that city having searched an officer's lady on suspicion of robbery, was notoriously current there for near three weeks, before any notice of so remarkable an incident appeared in our columns, and when it did the report was stated as such, without name or place to justify complaint of grievance from any individual. For these "grave offences" we have been reviled in most unwarrantable language by the BLACKPOD Reporter, whose very name designates, without mistake, its real character, and trading vocation.

Exchange, Limerick, February 7, 1840
GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.
TO THE RIGHT WORSHIPFUL THE MAYOR OF LIMERICK.
WE, the Undersigned, beg to express our opinion that in place of ILLUMINATING on the auspicious occasion of Her Majesty's Marriage, the Money would be more beneficially bestowed at this inclement season, in relief of the Distressed Poor of the City.
[Here follow the names of the Subscribers.]
Exchange, Limerick, 7th February, 1840.
GENTLEMEN—I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of your communication, conveying to me your opinion "that in place of Illuminating on the auspicious occasion of her Majesty's Marriage, that the money would be more beneficially bestowed for the Relief of the Distressed Poor."
To the sentiment that the present awful and deplorable privations under which the Poor of this City are now suffering, I feel a truly deep and sympathetic response, and I trust that we all perceive the urgent necessity that a Christian philanthropic, and energetic exertion ought speedily to be made to alleviate their dire distress. But there are occasions like the present, when a departure from established custom and precedent, such as are now about to be acted upon in the Metropolis of this Kingdom, would appear questionable, and subject me (did I sanction it) to the imputation of either Political or unworthy motives, which it shall be (during my Official career) my most anxious study to avoid.
In conclusion, I beg to assure you, that while I feel myself thus constrained to differ from the opinion of so numerous, influential, and highly respectable a portion of my fellow-citizens, I deem it due to them and myself to state, that I have received from many quarters sentiments of dissent from the opinion expressed in their communication.
I have the honor to remain,
your very obedient servant,
RICHARD FRANKLIN,
Mayor of Limerick.
Feb. 8.
