We understand that our respected fellow-citizen. John W. O'Hara, Esq. Barrister-at-law, has accepted the invitation to preside at the O'Connell Repeal din-His triends might wish to see him engaged in any other suit likely to benefit his clients; but Repeal is a speculation sure to eventuate in bitter and, perhaps calamitous disappointment to its inconsiderate votaries.

Lord Chancellor Plunkett will not resign that high office for any candidate however urgent or favoured. until the death of one of his predecessors shall entitle him to the usual pension on going out. Ex-Chancellor Manners is an octogenarian, and host likely to pass away before Sir Edward out on his successor in office—in which event the pre-of the Seals will have no objection to resignupon the stipulated annuity. From the annexed brief correspondence it appears that the Limerick Trades will be allowed to usher Mr. O'Connell into this City, with banners and music to the Repeal dinner:--"Net Fisherman's Society, Limerick, 22d Sept. 1840.

COURT MARTIAL AT BRIGHTON.

The general court-martial, which was to assemble esterday, relates to the conduct of Captain R. A, Reynolds, arising out of a letter he addressed to his commanding officer, the Earl of Cardigan, denanding an explanation of certain terms alleged to have been used by his Lordship at a private party in his own house, and supposed to reflect on the character of Captain R. A. Reynolds as one who should not be invited to partake of his Lordship's hospitality.

The following is an authentic copy of the " Charge ecoinst Captain Kichard Anthony Revnon of the 11th Da " For that he (Captain Richard Anthony Reynolds) having at Brighton, on the 28th of August, 1840 written and sent a letter to Lieutenant-Colonel the Earl of Cardigan, of the same regiment, his commanding officer, of an improper nature, and being thereupon personally ordered by the said Earl of Cardigan, as his commanding officer, to the effect following—viz, that all letters addressed to him by Captain R. A. Reynolds should in future be strictly official, nevertheless he, the said Captain R. A. Reynolds, in direct violation and disobedience of said order by his commanding officer, did on the same day viz. the 28th of August, 1840, write and address to him (Lieutenant-Colonel the Earl of Cardigan) a most disrespectful, insubordinate, offensive, and insulting letter, imputing to him conduct calculated to excite him to depart from his duty as commanding officer, and which last mentioned letter is as follows;— "Brighton Aug. 28, 1840.—My Lord—Having in my letter to your Lordship of yesterday street to your Lordship that a report had reached me that your Lordship had stoken of me in decid a manner as I deemed rejudicial to m, considering the position in which am placed, and having it the most respectful manner equested you. Lordship to allow me to contradict stell report, and your Lordship having this morning positively retised to give me any answer, I must beg to tell your Lordship that you are in nowise justified in speaking of me at all at a public party given by your Lordship, and more particularly in such a manner as to make it appear that my conduct has been such as to exclude me from your Lordship's "Brighton Aug. 28, 1840.-My Lord-Having in has been such as to exclude me from your Lordship's Such assertion is calculated to injure me .-Your Lordship's reputation as a professed duellist, founded on the having sent Major Jenkins to offer satisfaction to Mr. Brent, the miller at Canterbury, and your having sent Captain Forrest to London to call out an attorney's clerk, does not admit of your privately offering insult to me, and then screening yourself under the cloak of commanding-officer; and mnst be allowed to tell your Lordship, that it would far better become you to select a man whose hands are untied for the object of your Lordship's vindictive reproaches; or to act as many a more gallant fellow than yourself has done, and wave that rank which your wealth and earldom alone entitle you to hold.— I am, my Lord, your Lordship's obedient servant, Richard Anthony Reynolds, 45, Brunswick-square, Brighton. To the Right Hon. the Earl of Cardigan:" such conduct as aforesaid being in the said Captain Richard Anthony Reynolds unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, prejudicial to the interests of the service, subversive of good order and military discipline.
