A pensioner named John Horrigan, died a few days ago near Newcastle. He joined the service in the year 1786; served with the late Duke of York in Flanders, and was present at the taking of Seringa-patam, and the battle of Assaye, and served all through the Peninsula, and at Waterloo was wounded in the thigh. He was discharged in the year 1818 and was drawing his miserable pension of 4d. or 5d a-day, for 23 years.

Mr. Congreve, Inspector of Constabulary, requests us to state, that no charge of fraudulently stopping money was ever made against Sub-Inspector Croker; nor could partiality in discharge of that officer's duty be found, "his character as a gentleman of honor and integrity being unimpeachable." We refer our correspondent to the Chronicle of 24th ult.

If an emigrant takes out £1 in shillings and six-penny pieces, the currency value of the £1 in Upper Canada will be 25s. The same amount in silver, crowns or half-crowns will pass current for 24s.
The value of a sovereign is rated at 24s. 4d. so that, taken altogether the emigrant of limited capital will find it his profit to provide himself with an ample stock of shilling and sixpenny pieces.
