

Thomas, M.P. and Mr. Watson are at Kinsale, the electors.

Westropp Brereton, Esq. nephew of the Westropp, Esq. Attyfin, and one of the most members of the Irish bar, has received a requisition to offer himself a candidate for that at the ensuing election. We have no hesitatingly asserting that should this young gentleman, the electors will find in him a representative and to none in devotion to their real interests eminently qualified by the possession of integrity, and industry, to discharge the duties with full satisfaction to his constituents.

J. Cooper, Esq. of Markree, M.P. retires after representing the county in five Parliaments. He takes leave of public life to devote his care of a young family, and the welfare of his tenantry.

Mr. G. Gore, 53d Regt. is a candidate for Mr. place in the representation of Sligo county, and sees himself a friend of the Constitution in the State.

Mr. H. Ferrall, of Beechwood, Roscommon, beat Mr. O'Connell's nominee out of Athlone, and is a Catholic, but no Repealer. Mr. O'Beirne finding himself in a minority of the electors.

Mr. Bunbury, Esq. of Moyle, will take the field for the representation of the county Carlow. A Captain Brownlow Layard canvassing the county of Carlow.

Mr. Bernard, 12th Lancers, will again contest the county with the present members.

Mr. Bruen, Esq. brother of the Colonel, will maintain the independence of the borough of Carlow for which he is a candidate. Mr. Gisborne has declared off.

Mr. William Browne, assisted by Christopher Esq. were canvassing at the fair of Clohereen, last week, also Mr. John O'Connell of Grenagh.

Mr. Wm. Brown, in his address to the electors expresses his approval of the principles of her Majesty's present government.

Mr. Milley Doyle, and Lord Newry, are busily canvassing the electors of Newry borough, the majority is conservative, and in favor of the candidate.

Mr. George Jackson has addressed the electors of Carlow and there is no doubt of his being returned a third time to Parliament, by that constituency.

Mr. Richard Lalor Sheil, M. P. has announced his intention of offering himself a candidate for the representation of Dungarvan. Mr. Sheil demands the Devonshire interest there.

Mr. O'Connell and Tom Steele, are canvassing the county of Carlow, for young Dan, the brewer.

Mr. Robert Hutton, the coachmaker, has refused to contest for the city of Dublin, and the Liberals have requisitioned to the young Marquis of Kildare to fill the gap. This selection can only be popular in Dublin, where the Duke of Devonshire sold the splendid mansion of his ancestors on the site of Carlton palace in London, and chiefly resides with his family—an absentee in his native country! Can the son of "Ireland's favorite" be a favourite with the electors of Dublin?

Mr. Grogan, of Harcourt-street, Esq. has addressed the electors of Dublin, and says he will not let his power frustrate the attempt to make a Repeal borough. He declares himself a supporter of the Protestant Institutions in the State.

Mr. H. Watson, of Wilton Crescent, London, Government Candidate for Kinsale, against Mr. Thomas, 20th, and has already addressed the electors on Thursday last, a meeting of the electors and

DEATH OF CAPTAIN BARLOW, 20th REGT.

Captain Frederick C. Barlow, 20th, son of the late Lieut.-General John J. Barlow, died on Saturday night, after a short illness, at his lodgings, in George-street, having come in from detachment at Nenagh, a few days previously, for the benefit of medical advice. He had been suffering from influenza and cold, to which he incautiously exposed himself, and then most probably neglected, but he had the best professional attendance in this garrison, consisting of Surgeon Twihaites, Dr. Fraser, Staff Assistant-Surgeon Pitcairn, and the medical officer of his Regt. but we regret to state that human skill was unavailing, and he died in the arms of his young and interesting wife, who is left, with an only child, an infant, to deplore the early and premature loss of an affectionate husband and parent. Captain Barlow was the senior officer of his rank, and had served several years with the 20th in India. He acted as Brigade Major in the Chester district, when Capt. Considine, 69th, succeeded him. * His promotion to the rank of Major in the corps, was noted for the Gazette, but Providence has altered the disposition, which will now go without purchase in the Regiment, the officers and men of which deeply regret his unexpected death. His father-in-law, the Rev. Robt. Taylor, Rector of Clifton Campville, Staffordshire, arrived this day from England, to console his widowed daughter under her affliction, and to attend the remains of his son-in-law to the sister country for interment. Capt. Barlow was brother-in-law to Col. Thomas, M.P. who commands the 20th, and of Colonel Le Marchant, 99th, who on learning the sad fatality, arrived here on Monday morning from Dublin. These three officers were married to the daughters and co-heiresses of the Rev. Dr. Taylor. Since the demise of Captain Barlow the troops in garrison have paraded and mounted guard without music, and every respect due to the solemnity of the occasion has been rendered. At twelve o'clock to-morrow the funeral cavalcade will proceed from George's-street with full military honours, attended by Major-General Sir Wm. Machean, and Staff, Colonel Mansel, K.H. and all the Officers in garrison, consisting of the Royal Horse Artillery, 5th Dragoon Guards, and 20th Regt. The soldiers of the 20th in single rank and file will line the streets at each side as the procession passes, every man reclining upon his firelock reversed, the coffin borne upon an Artillery gun-carriage, and the pall supported by six brother Officers of his Regiment, the splendid band of the 20th playing a solemn dirge, the instruments with mourning appendages attached. The new Garrison Chaplain, Rev. Henry Willis, will officiate for the first time since his appointment. His own company will fire a farewell salute, on parting the remains of their late commanding officer at the Turnpike, on the Cork road, where a hearse and mourning coach awaits to convey the deceased to Waterford for shipment, on Friday, by the Nora Creina steamer to Bristol, and thence to Winchester for interment in the family burial place. The troops will reform and return to their respective quarters after the procession has halted outside the city.

The dates of Capt. Barlow's commissions were—Ensign, 2d July, 1824; Lieut. 25th October, 1827; and Captain, 18th Dec. 1829. He served as Aid-de-camp to Lieut.-Gen. Sir Edward Barnes, during the period that highly distinguished Officer filled the situations of Governor of Ceylon, and Commander-in-Chief in India. On the departure of Sir Edward Barnes from India, Capt. Barlow held the appointment of Brigade-Major to the Royal Troops at Calcutta, and, as we stated, more recently held a similar situation in the Northern district in England.

Lieut. Day and Ensign Sir Richard Gethin, will be promoted in succession to the vacancy occasioned by the death of Capt. Barlow. The young Baronet is on leave at his grandfather's, Colonel South, near Exeter.

The last occasion upon which the remains of a military officer who died in this garrison were not interred here, was upon the demise of Lieut.-Colonel O'Brien of the Clare Militia, when a grand military ceremonial was observed, there having been then six Regiments in quarters, and they accompanied the funeral outside Thomond-gate, whence he was conveyed to the grave of his ancestors in the County of Clare.

* This officer died while on the staff there last month.

There was a vague report of the 20th Regt. in this

This day is the 26th anniversary of the memorable battle of Quatre bras, the first of the three days which concluded with such signal glory for the British arms on the field of Waterloo. After such a lapse of time it is not surprising there should be no officers in garrison at present, that mingled in that decisive moment.
