(COMMUNICATED.)

Meeting of the Board of Guardians of the Union, on Saturday, 16th instant, Edward the Workhouse cook, brought forward a charge against Wm. Slattery, the master:— having supported his four sons, daughter, and the rations belonging to the paupers, a very singular to say, was not enquired for having allowed the new milk intended for the paupers to be set, the cream skimmed and churned for his use. (This charge was entered although Quigley offered to swear to the fact, but he was contradicted by two of the paupers, who were not sworn.) For the master having allowed pauper Beston to use the house, in a state of intoxication. (This was supported by the evidence of Ryan, the pauper, and the matron, Mrs. Slattery, having given the wine belonging to the paupers to two of the paupers, who dined with her. Quigley stated and swear that, by her orders, he gave the wine and that it was used by the Guardians, Killarney and Dalton.

low as, that when any of the tenants are desirous to dispose of their holdings (an event of very rare occurrence,) they readily obtain for the goodwill or Inter therein a sum varying from £15 to £20 per Irish Acre.
 Mr. W. W. SIMPSON has in this, as in every other instance, carefully avoided misrepresentation, and rejected altogether those florid descriptions which frequently lead to annoyance and disappointment the minds of purchasers, who naturally will judge themselves. Mr. Simpson, at the same time, fearful of contradiction, ventures to assert, from the result of personal survey and valuation, that an Estate of this magnitude, present value, reversionary interests, and capabilities, is very rarely the subject of public competition, taking even the wide range of the United Kingdom.
 Particulars are in preparation, and will shortly be published, when the property may be viewed.
 Every information will be given to persons who wish to treat for the purchase, by Francis Berry, Esq. Tullamore; Thomas Sterling Berry, Esq. Hill-street, Dublin; Messrs. Manning and Dalston, Solicitors Hertford-street, May Fair; and Mr. W. Simpson, Bucklesbury, London.
