whose welfare he is the constant guardian, greatly curtailed. The whole reward now amounts to £412, which, though it may not succeed in discovering the party who wrote or planned the letter, unquivo-cally evinces the good feelings of the tenantry, in the only way in which it was in their power to show them.
This laudable manifestation is too important not to be noticed at the present time, and we refer with pleasure to the sentiments expressed by the tenantry, and Mr. Bolton's excellent response.

On Monday night last, the house of John Hayes, herdsman to John Blackwell, at Killeen, within one mile of Newport, was attacked by four armed men, three of whom entered the house, and beat Hayes and his wife in a most unmerciful manner, so that they could not be removed to hospital. They ordered Hayes and Blackwell to quit the place forthwith. Blackwell holds the farm seven years, and is tenant to Mr. Phillipps, of Mount-Rivers.

Yesterday Dr. White, Inspector-General of prisons, visited the city gaol, where he was received by the Board of Superintendence, local Inspector, and Governor. He minutely examined every department of the prison, including the civil and criminal side, and declared himself well pleased with the management and interior economy. This respected gentleman is from his education and profession, eminently qualified for the important office he fills, and the duties of which are not confined to a mere formal visit, unattended with local advantages. Dr. White inspected the county gaol this day, under the management of Mr.
Woodburne, Governor, and found that extensive prison in excellent order. The Inspector leaves on his tour for Tulla and Ennis on Monday.

The reward of £10 offered by order of Government for discovery of the person that posted a Rockite notice at Faryhall, in this county, on the gate of Richard Burke, as stated in our last, had no reference whatever to Sir Richard Bourke, or any part of his property, as might be supposed by those unacquainted with the locality.
