tended to the neighbourhood, of Cloghan, King's

The castlebar gaol is full of illicit distillers.
Richard Pilkington, a pauper, has been refused admission to Ennystimon workhouse, because she is a Protestant, the Guardians conceiving if she were refused, they should be burthened with £20, the salary of a Protestant chaplain, as the inmates of the workhouse are all Roman Catholics!

broken out in the Kilkenny workhouse, and what was fearful, it had attacked those who had been vaccinated. Four cases terminated fatally.

Quarter Sessions of Kenmare.
(COMMUNICATED.)—In the present loud outcry against the apathy of Irish landlords, it is gratifying to contemplate some splendid exceptions, which contrast with the conduct of the others in higher relief, and in unfavourable contrast. The selfish and the greedy are strangers to the ennobling sympathies which create a due regard for the happiness and well-being of those, whose destinies Providence has placed in their hands. The uniform management of the family estates in Kerry, clearly demonstrates what a gentle and charitable proprietor can accomplish in placing comparative comfort and compenensation within reach of even the lowest occupant.
A LADY, not content with fulfilling her duty towards her tenantry generally, has ordered a very large supply of clothing of all descriptions for the poor in the neighbourhood of Aghadoe. Long may her Ladyship enjoy the happiness which she so extensively diffuses around her.

The following appeared in part of our last impression:
