THE SAPHO.—This extraordinary child, now old, appeared again on Thursday before the auditory. The world was long sick of the performances of musical children, and it is wondered that the Infant Sappho was attended with a sort of prejudice, but when with her sweet and remarkably intelligent standing on a table, and treating extemporarily with warmth and poetry, originality and equal subject given her, every prejudice of amazement and admiration. Her's is a kind of instinctive genius—its utterings spontaneous—they could not have been taught to imitate nothing before heard, and they carried the stamp of an infant mind soaring on wings to high and noble imaginings.
 In our opinion we believe that the infant artist alone—her mind seems to embrace simultaneously her subject all the beauties of the Italian her inspirations are poured forth with an energy and vigour of imagination quite astounding.
 She passes with fluent ease into all changes of subject as any person standing by would call for her not suffering her subject to slip from her grasping for a moment from an elegance of diction wholly to herself, and extemporise mance to be endless—the powerful resources she has at her command were truly marvellous, and could be produced by the innate impulse of natural genius. The auditory was numerous and fashionable.

—The success of this establishment fully attests the talent of the company, and the good taste of the manager's management. Since our last notice, we have seen an accession to the strength of the company, in the person of Mr. Benson (from the Theatre-Royal, Dublin) a gentleman of high professional reputation. Last night, the performance was under the patronage of Colonel and the officers of the 36th Regiment; it is stated that there was a crowded and distinguished audience—that every available part of the theatre was filled almost to suffocation, and that many were obliged to return, unable to procure an entrance, more than might be expected, from the high popularity of the gallant patrons, and the respectability of the patronised. The entertainments for the occasion were "Charles the First" and "The Happy Man"—a selection which, for the great number of military allusions, was particularly judicious. In the Happy Man Mr. Gardi-ner's Murphy was a masterpiece of comic art, for was his happiness confined to himself, and loud and continued peals of laughter were the result of that feeling he certainly shed its influence all around. The singing and dancing by Mr. Gardner and Mr. Ryan were excellent. The and the other gentlemen attended and played some national air.

Eugene Connolly, Esq. of Cork, to Honora Agnes, eldest daughter of Thomas J. Fitzgerald, Esq. of Mount Verdon.
 Daniel Sherlock, Esq. Barrister-at-Law, to Bessie Letitia, youngest daughter of John Therry, Esq.
 In Collon Church, William Rathbourn Supple, Esq. of Dun-shaughlin House, county Meath, to Fanny Charlotta, daughter of Robert Harrison, of Janeville, county Louth, Esq.
 At St. James's Church, J. Ridgway, Esq. of Walleuches, Lancashire, to Selina Harriet, sister of Sir Francis Doyle, Bart.
