 from the good and benevolent Admiral Oliver, R.N. distinguished patron of every useful charity in the Kingdom:—

Dublin, 4th January, 1845.

GENTLEMEN—In reply to your letter inclosing the case of the widow and orphans of M'Creesh, of the Royal Artillery, I trust his life in endeavouring to save that of a fellow-soldier, I should hope there is not an Officer or man in the Kingdom of Limerick but will subscribe a day's pay for the widow and orphans. I have desired a son of mine, now abroad there, to give one pound for me, he will probably do so on Monday next.—I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

ROBERT DUDLEY OLIVER, Admiral.

The death of Major John Gallwey, Deputy Inspector General of Police, and which we anticipated with congress in our last, took place on Friday night, at Rath-friland. He was brother of Christopher Gallwey, of Killybegs, Esq. agent to Lord Kenmare, and formerly a Major in the 16th Regt. The salary of the vacant position is £800 a year. The officer of the Constabulary next in seniority is Capt. H. J. Brownrigg, District Inspector, who has regularly graduated in the office; and is a most intelligent, active, and efficient functionary. Of course we expect nothing less than that the above step shall go in the Police establishment, if the present high character of the Irish Constabulary is to be sustained, without the disadvantageous intrusion of inexpert, untrained hands.

On Sunday last, the first Sunday of the year, six Ministers publicly renounced the Roman Catholic faith in St. Andrew's Church, Dublin. The Rev. Thomas Scott was the first, and preached on the occasion.
 The Treasurer of the Protestant Orphan Society publicly acknowledges £5 from a benevolent Clergyman, Archdeacon Maunsell; also £1, per Henry Maunsell, Esq. from Mrs. W. A. Rose, for the charity.
 The Rev. Godfrey Massy gratefully acknowledges the sum of £1 each from Mrs. Jones and the Rev. Robert Maunsell, for the charity sermon in behalf of Adelaide Maunsell, and £1 for the building from the Hon. Mrs.
 Maunsell, per Henry Maunsell, Esq.

There is to be a meeting of the Roman Catholic Bazaar in Dublin on the 22d inst.
 Miss Dwyer, daughter of Capt. J. Dwyer, late Ceylon and Miss Hynes, of Ennis, were formally received as inmates of the Sisters of Mercy this day, at the convent in Peter's-cell, by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Ryan, the energies of a highly cultivated and enlightened mind, in the retirement of private life, to the enjoyment of intellectual treasures and the exercise of social endearments, in the chosen
