On Saturday last, the Earl of Clare gave his annual harvest home festival to 200 of his Lordship's trades-people and labourers who, with their families, partook of a most sumptuous dinner, and we observed his Lordship, with his amiable sister, Lady Isabella Fitzgibbon, most attentive in seeing that all the guests were amply provided with every comfort. As soon as the cloth was removed, the entire company rose, and drank his Lordship's health and long life in a bumper, which his Lordship kindly acknowledged, by drinking all their healths, and hoped they would all enjoy themselves. To this succeeded the healths of Lady Isabella Fitzgibbon, the Hon. Colonel Fitzgibbon, and family. The merry dance commenced, and was kept up with unabated spirit to a late hour, when the company separated, first giving three cheers, which came from hearts overflowing with gratitude for their noble and generous benefactor.

Sir Val. Blake, M. P. continues dangerously ill.

Sir William and Lady Chatterton are at present on a visit at Vermont, with the Rev. Richard Dickson, the worthy Baronet's brother-in-law.

At the Police-office, on Monday, nineteen drunkards were brought up, some of whom had only taken the Pledge from Father Mathew at Six-Mile Bridge the previous Sabbath! The disgusting wretches were fined in penalties varying from 5s. to 2s. 6d. each, and those who had been in prison 48 hours were discharged.

Mr. O'Connell had a brief interview with Mr. Thomas Lloyd, of Beechmount, at Rathkeale on Friday, en route by this City to Castlebar. The purport of it, as may be supposed, was not satisfactory to either.

Dr. Enright, coroner, held an inquest at Barrington's Hospital on the body of Margaret Hickey, a child three years old, who was burned to death at a fire place, in Old Francis-street, on Sunday morning, in the absence of its mother, who had gone out to purchase breakfast for her husband. Verdict, accidental death.

Saturday last, Eyre Evans, Esq. the senior magistrate presiding, the following were elected Ex-officio Guardians for the Kilmallock Union.—Thomas Travers Adams, George L. Bennett, Eyre Evans, Robert Fetherston, Lord Guillamore, Joseph Gubbins, James Gubbins, Hugh Massy, The O'Grady, Michael P. Russell, Esqrs.
