

Parliament, the Rev. Dr. M'Leod, of Cork, expects to succeed Father Mathew as superior of the Capuchin Friars in Ireland, has left for Rome to facilitate the Rev. Apostles ascent to the episcopal dignity, and probably to secure his own appointment.

Archbishop MacHale promoted to the order of priesthood the Rev. Messrs. Waldron, and Hosty, at Tuam, having completed their studies in the Irish College at Paris.

Archbishop MacHale, of Tuam, calculates that the mortality in Ireland, by the present famine, will amount to two millions of the population!

The Parish Priests of Clonfert will meet at Loughrea, on the 31st inst., to elect a successor to their late diocesan, Rt. Rev. Dr. Coen, and Rev. Dr. Whitehead, Vice-President of Maynooth College, is reported to be his successor.

So great has been the labour undergone by the Roman Catholic clergymen of Tralee, that the Parish Priest, Rev. Dr. M'Enery, had to go through all the religious duties without assistance, his curates having been laid down by death or disease—the Rev. Mr. Enright having just fallen a victim to typhus fever, Rev. Mr. Fo'ey lying almost hopelessly ill of the same; the Rev. Mr. Mawe is also knocked up by excessive labour—Kerry Post.

Mr. Maurice O'Connell, M.P. states that a large proportion of oats, barley, and potatoes have been sown in Iveragh; and that the people are seen in daily increasing numbers at work in the fields.

In the district leading from Galway to Dublin almost the entire of the ground is laid down with wheat, oats, barley, and potatoes.

The country in the neighbourhood of Cork presents a most pleasing appearance. Vegetation advances rapidly and healthfully. On the whole, the prospects of the harvest are encouraging. About one-half the usual extent has been planted with potatoes and much more than the ordinary quantity with corn.

The largest turnip crop ever sown in Ireland is now in the ground, and an immense produce is anticipated. If the fatal blight does not fall upon the potatoe fields this summer, the best crops ever grown will be produced, as farmers took extraordinary care in preparing the ground and selecting seed.

Doctors Barker, Curtin, and Wherland, of Cork, have come out with a declaration in favor of Water cure treatment of patients.

The Crusheen relief committee had not a pound to expend on Saturday, when Austen Butler, Esq. of Ballyline, advanced them £50 to provide a supply of food for the poor of the district.

On the Lanesboro' estate the Lord Chancellor has approved the expenditure of £320 to enable tenants to emigrate.

The British Relief Association have placed bread stuffs to the value of £1000, at the disposal of the Mayor of Cork, Dean Newman, and Father Mathew, for the destitute poor.

Two barrels of clothing, one barrel barley, and one barrel potatoes, for Miss J. Bruce, Prohurst, Charleville, for poor relief, were shipped on the 28th ult. per the Josephine, at Boston, for the Cove of Cork.

It is disgusting to see Irish characters so frightfully maligned on the British stage. Every new piece of the sort is brought forward to lower the national character; even London is beginning to surfeit of the absurdity. "The Irish Post," now representing at the Haymarket, is apparently got up to turn unhappy Ireland into ridicule and contempt. How far different is any dramatic work written on Scotland, always, and very properly, designed to exalt the people, and leave their scoffers no food for detraction.

At Skibbereen Quarter Sessions, before Mr. Assistant-Barrister Moody, there were 300 prisoners for trial. Twenty-one were in fever, one of whom died on Friday. The majority of the prisoners were charged with stealing cows, sheep, &c.

Trade is so bad in Cork, under famine and disease, that many shopkeepers are obliged to subsist upon their present stock, and some of this not paid for; no business doing unless in bread stuffs.

Mr. Hortimer Hynes, Supervisor of Excise, is appointed to succeed Mr. J. Hudson, removed to Westport from Tuam.

Mr. John Hart, Mr. James Duggan, and Mr. Frederick Hoare, of Galway, were convicted at the prosecution of the local Customs in penalties for having contraband tobacco.

For the building of the Queen's College at Galway, thirty stone cutters, and thirty masons are required by the contractor, who commences the work next week.

Minchin Lloyd, Esq. is elected coroner for Londonderry.

Dr. M'Gonigle is appointed to the Ballyshannon Dispensary.

Mr. John Burke is appointed Deputy Postmaster of Galway, vice Morris, deceased.

The first summer show of the Cork Horticultural Society comes off this day at the Corn Exchange.

From and after the 5th of July the Galway and Sligo letter bags will be transmitted as far as Enfield, a distance of twenty Irish miles, by the Midland Great Western Railway.

A fire broke out in the house of Mrs. Foley, Cross-street, Cork. The house and its contents were burned. Lady Dufferin composed the Epilogue at St. James's theatre, London, on Thursday evening, for the benefit of the poor Irish.

"Jenny Lind," dramatized by Capt. Addison, is a very popular entertainment at the Adelphi Theatre.

The following appeared in part of last impression:
The Rum duties reduction bill has received the Royal assent.

Four officers of the 54th walked for a wager of £100, in heavy marching order, with 60 rounds of ball cartridge each, and full kit, from Kinsale to Cork, 20 miles, yesterday, in six hours.

On Sunday night last, of fever, at his residence, Thomond-place, the Rev. George Spaight, elder brother of Francis Spaight, Esq. of Gerry Castle. This faithful and zealous servant of his Divine master fell a victim to his incessant labours in the midst of poverty and penitence, which he never shrunk from, but courted every opportunity to soothe the bed of sickness and relieve the victim of destitution. He devoted himself thoroughly to this work of religion and mercy, considering loss of time, fortune, and health, to be certain gain for life eternal, so that he could rescue thereby soul or body from the fearful evils which now encompass the population of this country. Mr. Spaight was originally a Curate in the Established Church at Cavan, and subsequently held the benefice of Castletownroche, which he resigned through a purely conscientious motive, and ceased to officiate as a Clergyman. His missionary zeal, however, did not abate, and his charity and piety were yet more conspicuous of late years—feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and comforting the sick. That Peace which this world cannot give nor take was the end of this good gentleman, who was interred yesterday in the family vault at Quin, county Clare.
