

Just
to this place, a man of the name of Timothy Moberbollig, part of the estate of the repre-of the Hon. James Fitzgerald, immediately "your business is done, Sir," and brought of his house to me. I offered the man but with the same honest and noble spirit I expected him to restore so important a matter had lost it, he refused any reward, merely I was glad to have it in his power to so act." I expect demands from me the only recompense left it in my power to offer, that of giving to this rare instance of disinterested and integrity, and I have no doubt of your in this act of justice.
I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
