Constable Foot sworn-I sent the three Policemen accused on patrols that morning to Grange; their guns but it is customary with the force to place two or three small balls, similar to that produced, over the bullet,

when loading for night patrole.

The investigation did not terminate until half-past four o'clock, when the Coroner, in charging the jury said it was out of the question that they could find a rdict of wilful murder against the Police, whose conduct was highly reprehensible, as the evidence could only warrant them in bringing in one of manslaughter.
The room was then cleared, and after being locked n an hour the jury returned the following verdict :-We find that Richard O'Donnell was wilfully murdered on the morning of the 4th October, on the lands of Caherelly, by William M'Cannan, who stabbed him in the left side with a bayonet and killed him. And we find that Denis O'Donnell was wilfully murdered by Joseph Conroy, at the same place, who fired a gun shot at him, giving him a mortal wound, of which he instantly died—and we also find that John Dorney was present aiding and assisting,

The two Policemen, Conroy and Dorney, v rdingly committed to the County gaol last night, to abide their trial, but M'Cannan continues in such a dangerous state that he cannot be removed.

Robert Studdert, Esq. of Loughreany, who was waylaid and fired at by an assassin, as stated in last Chronicle, when the shot took effect in his oulder, is recovering from the wound. The gun was loaded with slugs, two of which entered his shoulder. and one lodged in his coat. Mr. Studdert is agent to James Molony, Esq. of Kiltannon, and having been obliged to distrain for rent, this outrage may be presumed to be the consequence.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

On Monday evening, a very large and respectable meeting was held in connexion with the London Mismeeting was held in connexion with the London sita-sionary Society, in the Presbyterian Church, Upper Gleatworth street, Wm. Fraser, Esq. kindly took the chair. After singing and prayer, Rev. John Hands, missionary from India, addressed the meeting. He said the were assembled on a solemn business, to take into heartfest consideration the spiritual destitution refillions of the human race, who live in the dark valley of the shadow of death—he shewed the success with which the agents of the Loudon Missionary Society were favoured in various parts of India-illustrated the decayed influence of Hindooism, and predicted the speedy downfail of that ancient and wide spread superstition. He referred to the Society's labours and prospects in Madagascar, South Africa, and South sea islands, and assured the meeting that Gon was opening a way for the extension of his kingdom, and was blessing graciously in all those fields of effort the labours of his church.—Rev. Mr. Hickie, Wesleyan minister, next made some eloquent remarks upon the Catholic basis of the London missionary society, and the self deaying yet glorious career of a missionary to the heathen.—Rev. Wm. Pairbrother. missionary from China, then addressed the meeting in a speech full of interesting detail and power. He said before he entered China he did not believe the state-ments made with regard to the populousness of that empire; observation however had dissipated his doubts. When he visited some of the cities of that vast region, containing a population varying from 250,000 to 2,000,000 of inhabitants, and saw the wide plains round densely studded with cottages in every direc-

JOHN-STREET WARD. The Rev. Michael Casey, Administrator of St. John's

parish, was chairman of a meeting of the burgesses of that Ward, which was held at the Temperance rooms, Mungret-street, on Monday evening, for the purpose of selecting three candidates to till the office of Alderman and Town Councillors, at the ensuing municipal elections, in room of those whose period of office will expire on the 25th November. The chairman said that in accordance with the public avowal made of their political principles, the burgesses of St. John's Ward could not, without a breach of that promise support any man who sought municipal honours at their hands unless his feelings were consonant with theirs-that he belonged to the Old Ireland O'Connellite party, and was an out and out Conciliation-hall Repealer-(cheers.) Alderman Geary he entertained the highest respect as a gentleman of talent, private worth, and charitable disposition, but as a political character he could not approve of his principles. The Rev. gentleman said Dr. Geary was aware of the meeting being held, and had dearly was aware of the meeting soing held, and had been informed by letter of the conditions upon which alone he could expect the support of the burgesses. His (Dr. Gesty's) answer to the communication was that he could not attend the meetitions which the could not attend the meeting, and that he was not a Young Irelander,-This was not sufficient-Dr. Geary did not say he was a Conciliation-hall repealer, and, consequently, ought not to be sustained (hear.) Were his father, or the nearest and dearest friend to come forward, he could not conscientiously give him support under such cir-cumstances, and the burgosses ought not to be led astray on this occasion. The persons seeking the feather of honor for their hat, should pledge themselves to attend regularly and assiduously the meetings of the Councilto resign office whenever called upon by a majority of the burgesses, at a meeting convened for that purpose, and to become and continue a Conciliation-hall repeater (cheers.) In conclusion, he told the meeting not to resort to violence or outrage in carrying out their principles-none but rufflans would maltreat or injure their neighbours because they differed with them in political opinions—such a course, if adopted, would tend to sever the Priesthoad from the people, and he therefore trusted they would uphold the maxim laid down by their revered Liberator-" he who commits a crime gives strength to the enemy"—(hear.) The Rev. Mr. O'Connor. P.P., in proposing the first resolution (that Dr. W. J. Geary was disentitled to their confidence) expressed regret at being obliged to bring it forward; he was a gentleman for whom he entertained the highest respect as a sincere and estimable private friend. In all that had failen from the Rev. Mr. Casey, he fully concurred—they were pledged to uphold Concitation Half, and if they did not do so, their characters would be held up to odium by the community-(hear.) St. John's Ward was celebrated for patriotism and straightforwardne and he trusted the burgesses would stand by their

The meeting was next addressed by Mr. Raleigh who proposed Mr. James B. Boyd, as Alderman, and Mesers, R. Frost and Stephen Hastings as Town ncillors, amidst general cheers.

Mr. Boyd in returning thanks pledged himself to maintain the principles of Conciliation Hallhis best exertions to promote the interests of the bur gesses and his fellow citizens, and to adhere to the proposition of the chairman

The Rev. Mr. Casey having been moved from the chair, and Mr. Boyd called thereto, thanks were voted to the former chairman, and the meeting separated with cheers for John O'Connell and Repeal.

One of the most useful residents to his fellow-citizens in the Irish metropolis is Henry Bowles, Esq. son of Henry Bowles, Esq. of this city; as vice chairman of the Poor-law Guardians in the South Union, and president of the local relief committee, he has reduced the out-door expenses to the inhabitants some thousands of pounds, whilst not a really indigent person wants support. Mr. Bowles being a Town-councillor is a didate for the Aldermanic gown in Stephen's ward, and there should be no doubt of his success.
